COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY'S MOST SUCCESSFUL FAIR ENDS

Perfect Weather Aided In Again Chalking Up New Marks For Attendance and Exhibits—Flivvers Win Races—Lady Fostyn and Billy S. Take Harness Races.

The Ulster County Agricultural Society not only broke the record for attendance at its four days fair at Ellenville this week but played true to form as to perfect weather during the week. It was not to hot not too cold nor did any rain fall, and the weather conditions were the same during fair weeks of 1919 and 1920. The prizes or premiums had all been awarded to exhibitors on Wednesday and Thursday and all President Potter, Secretaries McDowell and Moore, and Treasurer W. Kelly Shook had to do was to make out checks and watch the horse races and auto races, between congratulations to one another over the success of the annual fair.

The crowd was a little slow in coming Friday afternoon but when the automobile races started about 4 o'clock, President Potter and Secretary McDowell considered on looking over the grand stands, the automobiles and the people walking around the grounds and along the midway that the crowd was bigger than on the last day of the fair in 1920.

The events for the afternoon were a 2:27 trot or pace for a $400 purse, and a compensation race for a $200 divided purse in three heats for horses that had entered the other races of the week but had failed to get any of the money of the purses trotted for. There were five starters in the 2.27 race but R. Mc. owned by George B. Dolloway was drawn after going two heats having received a bad cut in one of her legs. The race was in split heats May Daphne winning the first heat and Lady Fostyn the next three. The compensation race was won by Billy S. he winning the first and third heat,, the second being taken by Hal Gentry. This race was very interesting and was hard fought between Billy S. and Lady Fostyn. Each owner in this race got $33.33 as their compensation.

The large crowd was greatly interester in the auto races, there being two events of five miles each instead of one of five and one of ten miles as had been scheduled. There were five cars entered, being a Chevrolet by Allen D. Potter of Ellenville, and four Fords the entries being Floyd Ackerly, Ellenville; Gardner & Mead, Middletown; Arnold Lipsett and Clarence Ronk, both of Wallkill.

First there was a trial heat for half a mile to decide as to positions No. 3, Lipsett going in 41¼ seconds, No. 11, Ronk in 41¾ seconds, No. 9, Potter in 44, No. 4, Ackerly in 45, and No. 4-d, Gardiner in 45¼.

The five cars then started in a two-mile lap three cars, Nos. 3, 11 and 9 going first and the time was in the order of their numbers 2:49, 2:50 and 3:06¼. No's 4-d and 4 then went the two-mile lap and No. 4 went in 3:06 and 4-d in 3:13. The latter car because of the slow time was eliminated by the judges. The four remaining autos were then started on the three mile lap and the time was No. 3, 4:20½, No. 11, 4:18, No. 9, 4:41½, No. 4, 45. As No. 11 had made the fastest time in the five miles 7:08, Ronk was declared the winner, No. 3 getting second place in 7:09½.

The second five mile race was then run off with the four autos, Nos. 3, 4, 9 and 11, the entries going ten times around the track, throwing up a cloud of dust that shut them out of sight on the back stretches and turns. For the first two miles it was a close race between Nos. 11 and 3, the former leading by three or four car lengths, but something happened to the engine in car No. 11, after the fifth time around the track and Ronk was compelled to stop, being unable to get the engine going, although he made a desperate attempt to do so. The race was then easy for No. 3, and Lipsett was declared the winner in seven minutes and thirty-two seconds for the five miles. No. 9 was second.

It was nearly 6 o'clock when the races were over and the concessionaires and exhibitors began tearing down their stands and removing the exhibits, most of them shipping their goods to Monticello where the Sullivan county fair will be held next week.

The summaries of the horse races are as follows:

LAST WEEK FOR KNAUTH HOME

Albany Avenue Place Has Been of So Much Benefit to Convalescent Ex-Soldiers That There is Talk of Maintaining Similar Place Here Next Year.

Next week will be the last week which the Knauth Home on Albany avenue will be kept open for the entertainment of sick soldiers. During the summer season about 150 men have been entertained there in groups, each group staying for two weeks and when their time was up a new group being brought.

Every one of the ex-service men have been greatly benefited by their stay at the home and have been loud in their praise for the kindness of the people of Kingston in bringing them here for a rest. Now as the season is closing, an effort is being made to make the home a permanent organization to be maintained each year. There has been considerable talk among those who have been active in the work this summer, to appoint a permanent committee and form a permanent organization to carry on the work again next year.

When the Knauth home was opened this summer practically all of the supplies necessary to maintain the home were either purchased or donated. At that time it was planned to turn over to the hospitals or one of the charitable institutions in the city all of this equipment when the Knauth home was closed this fall. Since that time the idea of making the home permanent has been discussed and as the equipment is already on hand it will be an easy matter to carry on the work again next year.

A number of those interested in the work have discussed the idea of renting for next summer some suitable building and holding the equipment on hand until next season and again taking up work which has so successfully been carried on this year.

BRITAIN FIRM AGAINST SECESSION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 27.—In rejecting the British settlement terms, Ireland turned down a wider range of rights than is enjoyed by the States of the American Union, Premier Lloyd George declared in his answer yesterday to the Irish Parliament's refusal of the British peace conditions.

The premier's reply, while firm in tone, leaves the door wide open for a continuation of the negotiations. It urges haste, however, in arriving at a basis of acceptance, warning that the time for indefinite pourparlers is passed.

The British premier reiterated in unequivocal terms that the British government can consider no settlement that means Ireland's secession from the British crown.

PRESS URGES IRISH REFERENDUM

Papers In Ireland and Britain Deplore Possibility of More Bloodshed and Many Think Irish People Should Give Final Decision.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 27.—Solemn warnings to the Irish people to heed the admonitions of Premier Lloyd-George's rejoinder to the Sinn Fein note rejecting the English peace proposals was printed by British and some Irish newspapers today.

"Irishmen must now decide that it is useless to pretend that the British government's terms will be changed regardless of the form of their present adoption," said the London Times. "Irishmen are urged not to be misled by the vain belief that the British government will make any further concessions."

The Northern Whig of Belfast, a bitter anti-Sinn Fein organ, in its comment upon the premier's letter said:

"If the British government abides by the terminology it is up to the rebels. Unless they haul down the Irish republican flag and hoist the Union Jack steps will be taken to compel them to do so." The Irish Times of Dublin, suggests a referendum as the best way out of the present situation. This newspaper's editorial comment said in part:

"If the Sinn Fein cabinet and Dail Eireann persist in their refusal the whole matter should put directly up to the Irish people for a final decision. Ireland has had more than enough bloodshed and misery."

"Premier Lloyd-George's reply should receive the gravest consideration" said the Freeman's Journal, of Dublin, an organ sympathetic to the Republican cause. "The premier's letter bears the same construction as General Smuts puts upon the original English peace offer'

"With the will for peace existing on both sides, it ought to be possible at this stage by conference to arrive at a basis upon which a settlement can be effected that will be honorable and satisfactory to both sides" said the Irish Independent. "Conference is more fruitful than correspondence."

Not a single paper suggested that the English offer be withdrawn but the Tory newspaper Morning Post proposed that John Dillon and other members of the old Irish nationalist party be consulted as well as the Sinn Feiners.

The Daily Chronicle suggested a direct appeal to the Irish people.

"If Dail Eireann rejects membership in the British empire, no further progress can be made," said the Daily Chronicle.

The Daily Telegraph described de Valera's letter as "rigid insistence upon a barren formula, totally regardless of the facts involved."

Both in Britain and Ireland the possibility of a renewal of warfare is deplored.

DAIL MEETS TO HEAR NEW NOTE

KAISER'S FRIENDS GAIN AT HOME

Erzberger Slaying Result of Increasing Power of Old Militarist Element In Germany—Body Lay Along Road Nearly All Day.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Aug. 27—The assassination of Dr. Mathias Erzberger, former vice chancellor and minister of finance, near Offenburg, Baden, marks a crisis in the increasing royalist and militarist activities in Germany, it was admitted today.

It is believed that the militarist and monarchist revival was responsible for the murder of Erzberger, who was a bulwark of republicanism and orderly observance of the treaty of Versailles.

Both royalist and democratic newspapers condemned the murder in their comment today.

Chancellor Wirth has telephoned his condolences and those of the cabinet to Frau Erzberger who accompanied her husband when he went to Baden to visit his mother.

Royalist and militarist activities have been more marked this week than at any other time since the armistice. Prince Eitel Frederick and General Ludendorff reviewed the German world war veterans in a great military display in this city and the ex-kaiser sent messages showing sympathy for the demonstration from his retreat in Holland. It is understood that militarist revivals have been planned throughout all Gemany.

Army officers are again appearing in the streets in full uniform and decorations and the old military spirit is showing itself in other ways.

The government will take precautions to prevent outbreaks when the funeral is held.

Additional details from Offenburg show that Erzberger was walking along a highway in the Black Forest when attacked by two youths. After the shooting began Erzberger jumped behind a hedge. The assailants walked off for some distance where they watched to make sure that their victim was dead. The body was discovered immediately afterwards, riddled with bullets, but owing to technical legal reasons was allowed to lie by the roadside nearly the entire day.

When the police arrived they fenced off the entire neighborhood to facilitate the investigation by the authorities.

POLICE AID MAN WHO FORGOT

Stranger, Who Applied To Local Police Stating He Could Not Recollect Either His Name or Home, Is a Syracuse Man—Police Locate Relatives.

Friday evening Chief of Police J. Allan Wood received a telegram from Addison Kitchen, a contractor at Newton, Pa., stating that his daughter's address was No. 616 Almond street, Syracuse, N. Y., and late that night Chief Wood telegraphed her that her husband was in the Kingston City Hospital here unable to recollect either his name or his home address. Up to noon today Chief Wood had not received a reply from the wife.

The other day, as related in The Freeman at the time, a stranger stepped up to Officer Entrott on lower Broadway, and confessed he had forgotten his name and where he lived. The officer took the stranger to police headquarters where Chief Wood questioned him, and learned that the last the stranger remembered was placing his wife on a train in the Grand Central Station in New York city some time in August. How he got to Kingston he was unable to explain.

He said that the clothes he was wearing were not his own either. He had a dim recollection of having stopped at the Mitchell House here early in May with his wife. Samples of the stranger's handwriting were compared with the hotel register and compared with the writing of James F. Bennett of Syracuse.

The man with the lost memory also recollected that his father-in-law lived at Newton and was a contractor named Addison Kitchen, which led to Chief Wood telegraphing him asking for his daughter's address which was received Friday night.

Chief Wood also arranged to have Bennett taken care of at the Kingston City Hospital until his wife could be located.

COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY'S MOST SUCCESSFUL FAIR ENDS

Perfect Weather Aided In Again Chalking Up New Marks For Attendance and Exhibits—Flivvers Win Races—Lady Fostyn and Billy S. Take Harness Races.

The Ulster County Agricultural Society not only broke the record for attendance at its four days fair at Ellenville this week but played true to form as to perfect weather during the week. It was not to hot not too cold nor did any rain fall, and the weather conditions were the same during fair weeks of 1919 and 1920. The prizes or premiums had all been awarded to exhibitors on Wednesday and Thursday and all President Potter, Secretaries McDowell and Moore, and Treasurer W. Kelly Shook had to do was to make out checks and watch the horse races and auto races, between congratulations to one another over the success of the annual fair.

The crowd was a little slow in coming Friday afternoon but when the automobile races started about 4 o'clock, President Potter and Secretary McDowell considered on looking over the grand stands, the automobiles and the people walking around the grounds and along the midway that the crowd was bigger than on the last day of the fair in 1920.

The events for the afternoon were a 2.27 trot or pace for a $400 purse, and a compensation race for a $200 divided purse in three heats for horses that had entered the other races of the week but had failed to get any of the money of the purses trotted for. There were five starters in the 2.27 race but R. Mc. owned by George B. Dolloway was drawn after going two heats having received a bad cut in one of her legs. The race was in split heats May Daphne winning the first heat and Lady Fostyn the next three. The compensation race was won by Billy S. he winning the first and third heat,, the second being taken by Hal Gentry. This race was very interesting and was hard fought between Billy S. and Lady Fostyn. Each owner in this race got $33.33 as their compensation.

The large crowd was greatly interested in the auto races, there being two events of five miles each instead of one of five and one of ten miles as had been scheduled. There were five cars entered, being a Chevrolet by Allen D. Potter of Ellenville, and four Fords the entries being Floyd Ackerly, Ellenville; Gardner & Mead, Middletown; Arnold Lipsett and Clarence Ronk, both of Wallkill.

First there was a trial heat for half a mile to decide as to positions No. 3, Lipsett going in 41¼ seconds, No. 11, Ronk in 41¾ seconds, No. 9, Potter in 44, No. 4, Ackerly in 45, and No. 4-d, Gardiner in 45¼.

The five cars then started in a two-mile lap three cars, Nos. 3, 11 and 9 going first and the time was in the order of their numbers 2:49, 2:50 and 3:06¼. No's 4-d and 4 then went the two-mile lap and No. 4 went in 3:06 and 4-d in 3:13. The latter car because of the slow time was eliminated by the judges. The four remaining autos were then started on the three mile lap and the time was No. 3, 4:20¼, No. 11, 4:18, No. 9, 4:41½, No. 4, 45. As No. 11 had made the fastest time in the five miles 7:05, Ronk was declared the winner, No. 3 getting second place in 7:09¼.

The second five mile race was then run off with the four autos, Nos. 3, 4, 9 and 11, the entries going ten times around the track, throwing up a cloud of dust that shut them out of sight on the back stretches and turns. For the first two miles it was a close race between Nos. 11 and 3, the former leading by three or four car lengths, but something happened to the engine in car No. 11, after the fifth time around the track and Ronk was compelled to stop, being unable to get the engine going, although he made a desperate attempt to do so. The race was then easy for No. 3, and Lipsett was declared the winner in seven minutes and thirty-two seconds for the five miles. No. 9 was second.

It was nearly 6 o'clock when the races were over and the concessionaires and exhibitors began tearing down their stands and removing the exhibits, most of them shipping their goods to Monticello where the Sullivan county fair will be held next week.

The summaries of the horse races are as follows:

LAST WEEK FOR KNAUTH HOME

Albany Avenue Place Has Been of So Much Benefit to Convalescent Ex-Soldiers That There is Talk of Maintaining Similar Place Here Next Year.

Next week will be the last week which the Knauth Home on Albany avenue will be kept open for the entertainment of sick soldiers. During the summer season about 150 men have been entertained there in groups, each group staying for two weeks and when their time was up a new group being brought.

Every one of the ex-service men have been greatly benefited by their stay at the home and have been loud in their praise for the kindness of the people of Kingston in bringing them here for a rest. Now as the season is closing, an effort is being made to make the home a permanent organization to be maintained each year. There has been considerable talk among those who have been active in the work this summer, to appoint a permanent committee and form a permanent organization to carry on the work again next year.

When the Knauth home was opened this summer practically all of the supplies necessary to maintain the home were either purchased or donated. At that time it was planned to turn over to the hospitals or one of the charitable institutions in the city all of this equipment when the Knauth home was closed this fall. Since that time the idea of making the home permanent has been discussed and as the equipment is already on hand it will be an easy matter to carry on the work again next year.

A number of those interested in the work have discussed the idea of renting for next summer some suitable building and holding the equipment on hand until next season and again taking up work which has so successfully been carried on this year.

BRITAIN FIRM AGAINST SECESSION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 27.—In rejecting the British settlement terms, Ireland turned down a wider range of rights than is enjoyed by the States of the American Union, Premier Lloyd George declared in his answer yesterday to the Irish Parliament's refusal of the British peace conditions.

The premier's reply, while firm in tone, leaves the door wide open for a continuation of the negotiations. It urges haste, however, in arriving at a basis of acceptance, warning that the time for indefinite pourparlers is passed.

The British premier reiterated in unequivocal terms that the British government can consider no settlement that means Ireland's secession from the British crown.

In the case of non-residents a statement of work completed is best obtained from the district superintendent of the district in which you were enrolled.

PRESS URGES IRISH REFERENDUM

Papers In Ireland and Britain Deplore Possibility of More Bloodshed and Many Think Irish People Should Give Final Decision.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 27.—Solemn warnings to the Irish people to heed the admonitions of Premier Lloyd-George's rejoinder to the Sinn Fein note rejecting the English peace proposals was printed by British and some Irish newspapers today.

"Irishmen must now decide that it is useless to pretend that the British government's terms will be changed regardless of the form of their present adoption," said the London Times. "Irishmen are urged not to be misled by the vain belief that the British government will make any further concessions."

The Northern Whig of Belfast, a bitter anti-Sinn Fein organ, in its comment upon the premier's letter said:

"If the British government abides by the terminology it is up to the rebels. Unless they haul down the Irish republican flag and hoist the Union Jack steps will be taken to compel them to do so." The Irish Times of Dublin, suggests a referendum as the best way out of the present situation. This newspaper's editorial comment said in part:

"If the Sinn Fein cabinet and Dail Eireann persist in their refusal the whole matter should put directly up to the Irish people for a final decision. Ireland has had more than enough bloodshed and misery."

"Premier Lloyd-George's reply should receive the gravest consideration" said the Freeman's Journal, of Dublin, an organ sympathetic to the Republican cause. "The premier's letter bears the same construction as General Smuts puts upon the original English peace offer'

"With the will for peace existing on both sides, it ought to be possible at this stage by conference to arrive at a basis upon which a settlement can be effected that will be honorable and satisfactory to both sides" said the Irish Independent. "Conference is more fruitful than correspondence."

Not a single paper suggested that the English offer be withdrawn but the Tory newspaper Morning Post proposed that John Dillon and other members of the old Irish nationalist party be consulted as well as the Sinn Feiners.

The Daily Chronicle suggested a direct appeal to the Irish people.

"If Dail Eireann rejects membership in the British empire, no further progress can be made," said the Daily Chronicle.

The Daily Telegraph described de Valera's letter as "rigid insistence upon a barren formula, totally regardless of the facts involved."

Both in Britain and Ireland the possibility of a renewal of warfare is deplored.

DAIL MEETS TO HEAR NEW NOTE

The Sinn Fein cabinet discussed the advisability of Eamonn de Valera and his colleagues returning to London. It was regarded as practically certain that they will go. Premier Lloyd George in his rejoinder offered to meet any Sinn Fein delegates who went to London to confer on Irish peace.

KAISER'S FRIENDS GAIN AT HOME

Erzberger Slaying Result of Increasing Power of Old Militarist Element In Germany—Body Lay Along Road Nearly All Day.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Aug. 27—The assassination of Dr. Mathias Erzberger, former vice chancellor and minister of finance, near Offenburg, Baden, marks a crisis in the increasing royalist and militarist activities in Germany, it was admitted today.

It is believed that the militarist and monarchist revival was responsible for the murder of Erzberger, who was a bulwark of republicanism and orderly observance of the treaty of Versailles.

Both royalist and democratic newspapers condemned the murder in their comment today.

Chancellor Wirth has telephoned his condolences and those of the cabinet to Frau Erzberger who accompanied her husband when he went to Baden to visit his mother.

Royalist and militarist activities have been more marked this week than at any other time since the armistice. Prince Eitel Frederick and General Ludendorff reviewed the German world war veterans in a great military display in this city and the ex-kaiser sent messages showing sympathy for the demonstration from his retreat in Holland. It is understood that militarist revivals have been planned throughout all Gemany.

Army officers are again appearing in the streets in full uniform and decorations and the old military spirit is showing itself in other ways.

The government will take precautions to prevent outbreaks when the funeral is held.

Additional details from Offenburg show that Erzberger was walking along a highway in the Black Forest when attacked by two youths. After the shooting began Erzberger jumped behind a hedge. The assailants walked off for some distance where they watched to make sure that their victim was dead. The body was discovered immediately afterwards, riddled with bullets, but owing to technical legal reasons was allowed to lie by the roadside nearly the entire day.

When the police arrived they fenced off the entire neighborhood to facilitate the investigation by the authorities.

POLICE AID MAN WHO FORGOT

Stranger, Who Applied To Local Police Stating He Could Not Recollect Either His Name or Home, Is a Syracuse Man—Police Locate Relatives.

Friday evening Chief of Police J. Allan Wood received a telegram from Addison Kitchen, a contractor at Newton, Pa., stating that his daughter's address was No. 616 Almond street, Syracuse, N. Y., and late that night Chief Wood telegraphed her that her husband was in the Kingston City Hospital here unable to recollect either his name or his home address. Up to noon today Chief Wood had not received a reply from the wife.

The other day, as related in The Freeman at the time, a stranger stepped up to Officer Entrott on lower Broadway, and confessed he had forgotten his name and where he lived. The officer took the stranger to police headquarters where Chief Wood questioned him, and learned that the last the stranger remembered was placing his wife on a train in the Grand Central Station in New York city some time in August. How he got to Kingston he was unable to explain.

He said that the clothes he was wearing were not his own either. He had a dim recollection of having stopped at the Mitchell House here early in May with his wife. Samples of the stranger's handwriting were compared with the hotel register and compared with the writing of James F. Bennett of Syracuse.

The man with the lost memory also recollected that his father-in-law lived at Newton and was a contractor named Addison Kitchen, which led to Chief Wood telegraphing him asking for his daughter's address which was received Friday night.

Chief Wood also arranged to have Bennett taken care of at the Kingston City Hospital until his wife could be located.

PUSSY CATBIRD.

"Me-ow, me-ow, me-ow, me-ow," said Mr. Catbird as he sat on the fence.

"Look for the Cat."

"Ha, ha," he continued, "I have had the best time in the world. Such jokes as I've played on the children. Such jokes! They thought I was a cat."

"Well," said Billie Brownie, "you know I've always called you Pussy Catbird, for you do sound most astonishingly like a pussy-cat at times."

"That's true, you have often called me that," said Mr. Catbird. But then you know I'm really just Mr. Catbird. The children were completely fooled.

"They really thought there was an old cat somewhere around.

"You should have been here a few minutes ago, Billie Brownie."

"I wish I could have been," said Billie Brownie, "but you see I don't like to be around when the children are. I like to be here when I can just watch them and when they can't see me.

"I'm a bit shy, you know. But I'm not shy with birds."

"No, I know that," said Mr. Catbird.

"But tell me what happened, Pussy Catbird," said Billie Brownie.

"Well, I was sitting on the fence, this very same fence upon which I'm now sitting and some children were playing in the yard nearby.

"While they were playing I made all sorts of queer sounds just like a cat.

"You know how I can take off the various sounds of a cat?"

"I most certainly do that," said Billie Brownie.

"They didn't know where the cat could be, and they began to look for the cat.

"I almost fell off the fence laughing when they started to look for the cat.

"Then when they were looking by the cellar stairs and under the old tree yonder I took great chances that they might see that I was not the cat, and I made the same sounds again.

"They kept saying to each other:

"'Well, I'm sure I heard a cat that time.'

"I really and truly almost fell off the fence laughing. Then they came back and went on with their games. They saw me sitting here and I had my beak tight and looked as though I hadn't made a sound."

"I know," said Billie Brownie.

"Then I sat very still, of course, and one of them said:

"'Well, all I can see is that gray bird with the black cap.'

"Of course they meant they could see me, and I was the one making all the sounds like a cat.

"They finished playing after a time and began to dig in the garden, transplanting the lettuce and hoeing the beans and watering the vegetables.

"Then I began to make sounds like the different birds and they would turn to one another and say:

"'What song is that? Whose voice was that? Do you know what bird that could have been?'

"And they'd look about and not see any of the other birds, for hardly any birds were around then, and I sat, looking so quiet and meek.

"You're a Smart Bird."

"And then I heard one of them say:

"'I still don't see any other creature but that gray bird.'

"I thought surely then that they knew I was fooling them, but I found out they didn't know I could make sounds like a cat and sing like the other birds and something like a mocking-bird, too.

"But they didn't know. And they've all gone off now. And still they're wondering where the cat could have been which they thought they heard, and where all the birds were they were unable to see.

"Ha, ha, ha, that is the greatest joke—to think I fooled them all."

"Well, you're a smart bird, there is no mistake about that," said Billie Brownie, "and I can tell you I admire your smartness."

"I fooled them, I fooled them," chirped Mr. Catbird. "They didn't know the catbird when they saw him, nor did they know him when they heard him at his little jokes!"

Illuminated.

A little girl was combing her hair. It "cracked" and she asked her mother why it did.

"Why, dear, you have electricity in your hair," explained her mother.

"We're a funny family, ain't we, mother?" the youngster said. "We're all lit up. I have electricity in my hair and grandma has gas on her stomach!"

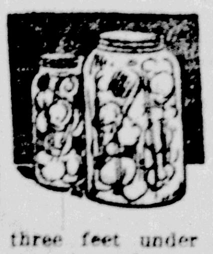
CANNING WITHOUT COOKING.



An old recipe for canning peaches, handed down for several generations, required the peaches to be peeled and packed compactly in jars, covered with sugar, shaken down until the can was full of fruit and sugar, sealed and buried three feet under the ground. This recipe has been tried and the fruit is delicious, flavor rich and color good. Another year the same process was used, the jars kept in the ice chest until cold weather, then transferred to a cold fruit closet, with results as good. The fruit jars should be sterile and cold when the fruit is packed. Sterilize the fruit jars by putting them into a deep pan of cold water after they have been thoroughly washed; bring to the boiling point both jars and tops. Dip the rubbers, before adjustment, into boiling water, put on the tops and set out to cool.

Canned Raspberries.—Wash and drain the berries, add an equal weight of sugar to the berries after every berry has been crushed. Allow to stand over night, or 24 hours in a cool place, stirring occasionally to be sure that the sugar is all dissolved. Seal in sterilized jars that have been well chilled and keep in a cool, dark place. Strawberries and raspberries canned in this manner are excellent for shortcake, sauces for puddings or ice cream. Ripe currants are delicious canned this way, but it is vital that every currant is crushed, otherwise fermentation sets in and the whole jar is spoiled.

Preserved Grapes. — Wash the bunches carefully, removing any bruised fruit. Lay, after draining, in carefully sterilized jars, sprinkle a thick layer of sugar over the layer of grapes, then repeat, using plenty of sugar. Cover carefully, sealing the top of the jar with paraffin. Set in a cool place and in the winter one may revel in these bunches of deliciousness.

Peculiar London Names.

London Town (England) has many curious names incorporated in its streets and squares which embody strange incidents or are of peculiar origin. The derivations of the name of the city itself would fill a page but one authority gives the name as derived from the Celtic Luan-dun, City of the Moon, and tradition has it that there was once a temple of Diana where St. Paul's now stands. Similarly Greenwich is supposed to be derived from Grian-wick, also Celtic, meaning City of the Sun. London is also to be derived from Lud's Town, so called from Lud, said to be a mythical king of Britain.

Stories of Great Scouts

HOW WALAPAI CLARK ENDED "THE APACHE TERROR"

Although the worst Indian war in Arizona ended in 1886, when Chief Geronimo surrendered to General Miles, ten years later a lone Apache warrior was still carrying terror to the hearts of the settlers in that state. The Apache Kid was his name. He had once been a scout for our troops; then his "heart went bad"; he deserted his command and joined the hostiles. When Geronimo surrendered, the Apache Kid "stayed out" and took the lone war trail.

Late in the '90's a prospector named Jack Clark located a claim near Condon in the Santa Cataline mountains north of Tucson. Clark had been a scout for the government in the Apache campaigns. He had lived among the Walapai Indians for many years and bore the nickname of "Walapai" Clark. One night an old pack mare of Clark's was stolen and the trail showed that it was the work of a lone Indian. Clark felt sure it was the Apache Kid.

"Walapai" knew that unless the Indian kept the mare securely tied she would escape and come back. A week later she returned. Believing that the thief would not give up such a valuable animal so easily, Clark prepared for his return. That night he staked the mare out in a little park and concealed himself in the tall grass nearby. After hours of waiting, the scout saw an Indian's head appear above the grass at the edge of the clearing. A second later another appeared and both Indians crept toward the horse.

There was a full moon and Clark could not miss. He fired and the first Indian dropped. Like a flash the other sped for the woods. "Walapai" fired again. The Indian stumbled, almost fell and then disappeared. When Clark reached the dead Indian, he found she was a squaw. The cowardly Kid had made her go ahead so that she would receive the deadly bullet if they were entering an ambush.

Clark knew better than to hunt for the wounded Indian that night. The next morning he led a large party on the trail. Here and there they found spots of blood and further on a bloody headband. But they never found the Apache Kid. His fate is unknown, but it is believed that he crawled away into one of the many caves in the Santa Catalinas to die. At any rate, his raids ceased. "Walapai" Clark had ended "The Apache Terror."

Tribute to the Clematis.

No clematis is like another clematis. It climbs differently; the setting is different; it consorts with different flowers in different surroundings; and as it puts forth its tender leaves, the delicate leaf stalks grip here, there, and instantly curl round the support. Climbing plants are versatile, always unexpected, and refined; generous to those with whom they live, not proud, and a very real joy to all travelers.—Christian Science Monitor.

Measuring Fixed Stars.

For many years it was thought impossible to measure the fixed stars. The ablest astronomers, with the best glasses, tried and failed. When the final triumph came it was not some fiery orb that attracted the most attention to itself whose distance from the sun was found, but an insignificant sixth magnitude star not far from Deneb, which had only its number, 61 Cygni, for a name.

Old Boston Burying Grounds.

After the oldest burying grounds in Boston were forsaken for newer ones, they were allowed to go uncared for, and in these years of neglect stones were stolen, moved about, broken and lost. In Copp's Hill burying ground, up the street from the Old North church, stones were filched to fill in holes in chimneys and prop up doorsteps around the neighborhood.

Cathedral of Mud and Wood.

Of the world's cathedrals, probably the most curious is that which crowns a hill in Uganda. In appearance it resembles nothing so much as a mountain of grass, although on closer inspection one is able to see that mud and wood have been extensively employed. The structure can accommodate 4,000 persons.

INTL.

One of the largest fires in the history of the State of New Jersey broke out at Hoboken early in the evening of August 24 and destroyed most of the Army Piers. The S. S. Leviathan, largest liner afloat, formerly the Vaterland, caught fire and for a time was threatened with destruction. The fire also spread to the Lackawanna Railroad Station and for a long time was uncontrollable at that joint. The bodies of hundreds of American soldiers were carried off Pier 4 by soldiers and longshoremen in the teeth of the flames. There was no loss of life, though many firemen were burned. The offices of the Hamburg-American line was badly burned. The strong wind blew the blaze, and it was feared that Hoboken's apartment house district would be caught in its path. The Hoboken Post Office caught fire, but it was extinguished. Quantities of mail were rushed from the building. The Army transports Wheaton and Western Queen were also ablaze. They were drawn into midstream, with their freights of soldier dead, and the flames extinguished by fireboats. The transports also carried ammunition.

ROSENDALE.

Rosendale, Aug. 26.—Since the Rev. A. H. Price resigned the pastorate June 1, there has been service every Sunday. The Rev. D. W. Guthrie preached three Sundays. Later the pulpit was filled once by the Christian Endeavor Union of Kingston, and two Sundays by Mr. Deyo and Mr. Brady. Mrs. Elsie Myers Pultz is now the regular supply. Those who hear Mrs. Pultz not only enjoy her sermons but receive great help in spiritual life. She is a sister of the famous Baptist minister, the Rev. Cortland Myers, D. D. All are most cordially welcome to come and hear the talented woman preach every Sunday morning.

The Rev. Justin D. Field, a state convention worker, will spend the last two weeks of September with the church, visiting the people and holding services. We are anticipating his arrival with great interest.

The Rev. D. W. Guthrie, who has been very ill, is now at his home here, slowly regaining his health. He spent four weeks in the Kemble sanitarium, where he passed through several operations.

The sale held August 18, afternoon and evening was a very enjoyable affair. A delightful program was given in the evening under the direction of Mrs. Luella Haust Hetty. The net receipts were $63.00.

The Baptist church property is now undergoing extensive repairs. The roofs of both church and parsonage are new, and steps have been built at the front and back doors of the parsonage and at the side door of the church. Also the inside of the parsonage is to be papered and painted throughout and other repairs made to make the house again a comfortable home.

The annual picnic of the Sunday School, Miss C. E. Anderson superintendent, was held at Kingston Point Thursday, August 25.

It is expected that at the Baptist Church next Sunday the choir will have the competent help of the Misses Lydia and Harriet Berg of Brooklyn.

Miss Myrtle Mellert of Passaic, N. J., and Miss Jennie LeFevre of Poughkeepsie are visiting at Mrs. Ralph LeFevre's.

The Ladies' Aid Society was nicely entertained by Mrs. A. Campfield and her daughters.

Peculiar Maori Belief.

Present-day Maoris are nominally Christians, but there are many old chiefs who are still fond of their ancient totem poles. Their religion is that of nature worship combined with the veneration of ancestors. A peculiar and interesting detail of their religion is in the belief that the soul dwells in each human being's left eye. The Maoris were confirmed cannibals in by-gone days.

Ostrich's Feelings Hurt.

The finest ostrich feathers are the forty or more white ones which come off the wings. The birds seem to feel very keenly the disgrace of having their feathers plucked. They go about hanging their heads and showing chagrin very plainly. A more bedraggled forlorn-looking creature than the freshly plucked ostrich does not exist.

Dam Not Built by Experts.

The failure of the dam which caused the famous Johnstown flood, May 31, 1889, was due to defects of construction, explained by the fact that no engineer was employed in designing or building the dam.

Premiers Lloyd George & M. Briand INTL.

These two heads, Premier Lloyd George and Premier Briand, were examined by an expert phrenologist, who declared there to be a striking resemblance between the two heads. Their hair, head, eyes, mouth, chin, and forehead are almost exactly similar. In fact, the expert said, one might take them for twin brothers. Strangely enough, they are wearing the same style collars and ties.

PUSSY CATBIRD.

"Meow, meow, meow, meow," said Mr. Catbird as he sat on the fence.

"Look for the Cat."

"Ha, ha," he continued, "I have had the best time in the world. Such jokes as I've played on the children. Such jokes! They thought I was a cat."

"Well," said Billie Brownie, "you know I've always called you Pussy Catbird, for you do sound most astonishingly like a pussy-cat at times."

"That's true, you have often called me that," said Mr. Catbird. But then you know I'm really just Mr. Catbird. The children were completely fooled.

"They really thought there was an old cat somewhere around.

"You should have been here a few minutes ago, Billie Brownie."

"I wish I could have been," said Billie Brownie, "but you see I don't like to be around when the children are. I like to be here when I can just watch them and when they can't see me.

"I'm a bit shy, you know. But I'm not shy with birds."

"No, I know that," said Mr. Catbird.

"But tell me what happened, Pussy Catbird," said Billie Brownie.

"Well, I was sitting on the fence, this very same fence upon which I'm now sitting and some children were playing in the yard nearby.

"While they were playing I made all sorts of queer sounds just like a cat.

"You know how I can take off the various sounds of a cat?"

"I most certainly do that," said Billie Brownie.

"They didn't know where the cat could be, and they began to look for the cat.

"I almost fell off the fence laughing when they started to look for the cat.

"Then when they were looking by the cellar stairs and under the old tree yonder I took great chances that they might see that I was not the cat, and I made the same sounds again.

"They kept saying to each other:

"'Well, I'm sure I heard a cat that time.'

"I really and truly almost fell off the fence laughing. Then they came back and went on with their games. They saw me sitting here and I had my beak tight and looked as though I hadn't made a sound."

"I know," said Billie Brownie.

"Then I sat very still, of course, and one of them said:

"'Well, all I can see is that gray bird with the black cap.'

"Of course they meant they could see me, and I was the one making all the sounds like a cat.

"They finished playing after a time and began to dig in the garden, transplanting the lettuce and hoeing the beans and watering the vegetables.

"Then I began to make sounds like the different birds and they would turn to one another and say:

"'What song is that? Whose voice was that? Do you know what bird that could have been?'

"And they'd look about and not see any of the other birds, for hardly any birds were around then, and I sat, looking so quiet and meek.

"You're a Smart Bird."

"And then I heard one of them say:

"'I still don't see any other creature but that gray bird.'

"I thought surely then that they knew I was fooling them, but I found out they didn't know I could make sounds like a cat and sing like the other birds and something like a mocking-bird, too.

"But they didn't know. And they've all gone off now. And still they're wondering where the cat could have been which they thought they heard, and where all the birds were they were unable to see.

"Ha, ha, ha, that is the greatest joke—to think I fooled them all."

"Well, you're a smart bird, there is no mistake about that," said Billie Brownie, "and I can tell you I admire your smartness."

"I fooled them, I fooled them," chirped Mr. Catbird. "They didn't know the catbird when they saw him, nor did they know him when they heard him at his little jokes!"

A little girl was combing her hair. It "crackled" and she asked her mother why it did.

"Why, dear, you have electricity in your hair," explained her mother.

"We're a funny family, ain't we, mother?" the youngster said. "We're all lit up. I have electricity in my hair and grandma has gas on her stomach!"

CANNING WITHOUT COOKING.

An old recipe for canning peaches, handed down for several generations, required the peaches to be peeled and packed compactly in jars, covered with sugar, shaken down until the can was full of fruit and sugar, sealed and buried three feet under the ground. This recipe has been tried and the fruit is delicious, flavor rich and color good. Another year the same process was used, the jars kept in the ice chest until cold weather, then transferred to a cold fruit closet, with results as good. The fruit jars should be sterile and cold when the fruit is packed. Sterilize the fruit jars by putting them into a deep pan of cold water after they have been thoroughly washed; bring to the boiling point both jars and tops. Dip the rubbers, before adjustment, into boiling water, put on the tops and set out to cool.

Canned Raspberries.—Wash and drain the berries, add an equal weight of sugar to the berries after every berry has been crushed. Allow to stand over night, or 24 hours in a cool place, stirring occasionally to be sure that the sugar is all dissolved. Seal in sterilized jars that have been well chilled and keep in a cool, dark place. Strawberries and raspberries canned in this manner are excellent for shortcake, sauces for puddings or ice cream. Ripe currants are delicious canned this way, but it is vital that every currant is crushed, otherwise fermentation sets in and the whole jar is spoiled.

Preserved Grapes. — Wash the bunches carefully, removing any bruised fruit. Lay, after draining, in carefully sterilized jars, sprinkle a thick layer of sugar over the layer of grapes, then repeat, using plenty of sugar. Cover carefully, sealing the top of the jar with paraffin. Set in a cool place and in the winter one may revel in these bunches of deliciousness.

Peculiar London Names.

London Town (England) has many curious names incorporated in its streets and squares which embody strange incidents or are of peculiar origin. The derivations of the name of the city itself would fill a page but one authority gives the name as derived from the Celtic Lunn-dun, City of the Moon, and tradition has it that there was once a temple of Diana where St. Paul's now stands. Similarly Greenwich is supposed to be derived from Grian-wick, also Celtic, meaning City of the Sun. London is also to be derived from Lud's Town, so called from Lud, said to be a mythical King of Britain.

Stories of Great Scouts

HOW WALAPAI CLARK ENDED "THE APACHE TERROR"

Although the worst Indian war in Arizona ended in 1886, when Chief Geronimo surrendered to General Miles, ten years later a lone Apache warrior was still carrying terror to the hearts of the settlers in that state. The Apache Kid was his name. He had once been a scout for our troops; then his "heart went bad"; he deserted his command and joined the hostiles. When Geronimo surrendered, the Apache Kid "stayed out" and took the lone war trail.

Late in the '90's a prospector named Jack Clark located a claim near Condon in the Santa Cataline mountains north of Tucson. Clark had been a scout for the government in the Apache campaigns. He had lived among the Walapai Indians for many years and bore the nickname of "Walapai" Clark. One night an old pack mare of Clark's was stolen and the trail showed that it was the work of a lone Indian. Clark felt sure it was the Apache Kid.

"Walapai" knew that unless the Indian kept the mare securely tied she would escape and come back. A week later she returned. Believing that the thief would not give up such a valuable animal so easily, Clark prepared for his return. That night he staked the mare out in a little park and concealed himself in the tall grass nearby. After hours of waiting, the scout saw an Indian's head appear above the grass at the edge of the clearing. A second later another appeared and both Indians crept toward the horse.

There was a full moon and Clark could not miss. He fired and the first Indian dropped. Like a flash the other sped for the woods. "Walapai" fired again. The Indian stumbled, almost fell and then disappeared. When Clark reached the dead Indian, he found she was a squaw. The cowardly Kid had made her go ahead so that she would receive the deadly bullet if they were entering an ambush.

Clark knew better than to hunt for the wounded Indian that night. The next morning he led a large party on the trail. Here and there they found spots of blood and further on a bloody headband. But they never found the Apache Kid. His fate is unknown, but it is believed that he crawled away to one of the many caves in the Santa Catalinas to die. At any rate, his raids ceased. "Walapai" Clark had ended "The Apache Terror."

Tribute to the Clematis.

No clematis is like another clematis. It climbs differently; the setting is different; it consorts with different flowers in different surroundings; and as it puts forth its tender leaves, the delicate leaf stalks grip here, there, and instantly curl round the support. Climbing plants are versatile, always unexpected, and refined; generous to those with whom they live, not proud, and a very real joy to all travelers.—Christian Science Monitor.

Measuring Fixed Stars.

For many years it was thought impossible to measure the fixed stars. The ablest astronomers, with the best glasses, tried and failed. When the final triumph came it was not some fiery orb that attracted the most attention to itself whose distance from the sun was found, but an insignificant sixth magnitude star not far from Deneb, which had only its number, 61 Cygni, for a name.

Old Boston Burying Grounds.

After the oldest burying grounds in Boston were forsaken for newer ones, they were allowed to go uncared for, and in those years of neglect stones were stolen, moved about, broken and lost. In Copp's Hill burying ground, up the street from the Old North Church, stones were used to fill in holes in driveways and prop up doorsteps around the neighborhood.

FORTUNE COMES AT LAST.

Away back in the sixteenth century the observant Cervantes remarked that fortune leaves always some door open to come at a remedy, but the people of Nassau must have doubted this as they waited through so many generations for the arrival of prosperity. The somnolent little capital of the Bahamas had practically nothing but its delightful climate to depend on and so there was little chance for anybody but hotel keepers to make money, these, like similar proprietors in Florida, long doing a pretty good business in "sick Yankees." The rest of the population managed to get an extremely modest living through the export of pimento and salt and a small as well as precarious trade in a few sea products such as sponges. But at last a door of prosperity, and a quite unexpected one, has opened to Nassau and all is changed. The sleepy old town for the first time beholds modern rush with its own eyes, in consequence of a new, exacting and highly profitable export business.

The representative of a New York newspaper who went down there recently found "a scene of vehement activity," with money circulating among both white and black natives in quantities undreamed of in former times. "The change," we read, "is due wholly to prohibition in the United States, or rather to the prompt realization of the residents of Nassau that prohibition here, survived as it is by many thirsts, created for them an opportunity such as rarely has come to a sleepy British colony—such as never has come to one of them, perhaps, since piracy went out of style. This is the opportunity that Nassau eagerly has seized, and practically all other business has been abandoned for that of supplying American customers with barreled and bottled goods." The account of the happy new times in Nassau concludes with the statement that "trade is brisk and profits enormous."

Many people express solicitude for the railroad employees merely because they think there are many more employees than owners of the roads, and that the powerful few have been exploiting the more numerous, but less influential, workers for their own benefit. The Railway Age estimates that there are approximately twice as many owners of rail securities as there are employees. The Northern Pacific road is considered typical of all lines, and a recent count showed that there are 73,000 owners of its bonds and stocks. But the employees of the Northern Pacific number only about 30,000. The rights of those security holders are just as inviolate as the rights of labor. The railroad employees were able through threatened strikes and various other forms of intimidation, to raise their wages substantially as the cost of living rose during and after the war. But the security holders, depending for their incomes on their dividends and interest payments, had no redress.

A special committee of the American Bar Association has recommended that the date for presidential inaugurations be advanced from March 4th to the third Monday in January, and also that Members of Congress elected in November meet on the second Monday of the January following. It is argued that too much time elapses from the date of the election to the taking of office by the successful candidates and the putting into effect of the policies the people have endorsed. At present, unless a special session of Congress is called by the President, thirteen months elapse before members elected in November take their seats in December of the following year. In the meantime conditions under which they were elected may have entirely changed.

One of the great industries of the United States is the manufacture of film for kodaks, motion picture cameras, etc. One of the numerous firms manufacturing film in the United States pays taxes to the amount of $5,000,000 a year. European firms manufacturing a similar product are permitted to ship the film in free of duty, keeping the selling price just under the American price and putting in their own pockets the huge profits incident to their lower costs of production. That is the Democratic idea of a Federal system of taxation—taxing the American but not the foreigner who takes advantage of a good American market. Watch the Republicans change the plan.

1. Are porcupines found all over America?

Pretty much so. Erethizon dorsatus, or Canada porcupine, inhabits coniferous woods about as far north as they extend, and in earlier days lived in wooded country as far south as Virginia and Kentucky. In the middle states it, and a yellow haired variety Erethizon epixanthus, are both found, the latter well known in the West. There are tree-inhabiting kinds in South America.

2. Can the "water witch" really find water with a divining rod, and what explains this?

We know no satisfactory explanation for the occasional success of certain persons using a hazel or willow forked stick. Scientists disbelieve in any inherent quality of the rod that makes it react when near water-sources, and say there are more failures than successes. One technical chemist reports sinking a splendid well against the advice of a man with a divining rod.

3. What is the largest bird in the world and where does it live?

The ostrich is the largest existing bird, and is native to the plains and deserts of Africa. It has been domesticated and is raised not only on ostrich farms in Africa, but in California and in America. There are two kinds of ostrich in Africa. In South America the bird is represented by the smaller rhea, which has three toes, as against the two toes of the African ostrich.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

The Shine.

Wearily I clamber
To the dizzy height
Of the leather settee;
Not a word
Is spoken
Lanquidly the Hellene
Applies the polish
To my shoes.
He makes a few
Feeble passes over them
With a cloth
Imparting a dull glow,
Wearily I clamber down
And hand him
15 cents,
Not a word
Is spoken.

Such Asininity.

At one of the special events, a lady had responded beautifully to several encores. Another woman sitting on the side turned to a friend sitting near her and remarked:

"She has quite a repertoire, hasn't she?"

"Yes,'" answered the friend, "but she dresses so she doesn't show it."

Another sad fact is that if a man happens to marry his first love she isn't always his last love.

Home Brew Foolishness.

I losh my li'l walrus
  I'm afraid he got in jail,
He got too gay and sassy
  And flipped his li'l tail.

He twirled his roguish whiskers,
  And flapped his flipper fin
And yet so sweet and guileless,
  How could they run him in?

Have you sheen my li'l walrus,
  You'd know him by his gait,
A sinuous rollin motion,
  A wriggling hezhitate.

I know some cop did spy him
  And thought his dance too crude,
And took him to the hoshgow
  Now wouldn't that be rude?

Sho if you shee my walrus,
  I've losh my li'l pet,
Jus' one drink or maybe two,
  'Twas that made me forget.

Sho if you see my walrus,
  Jus' bring him back to me,
I'll be waiting for him, moistly,
  With my arms around thish tree.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story
Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

It was not enough for Miss Billing to know that Jim would not work longer than two days on a job. She wanted to know why, and since her niece's insinuation that Jim had inherited $3,000,000, both she and her little maid, Elsie, made every effort to solve the mystery.

Jim himself had no special reason for keeping mum about his uncle's strange will, in which the large sum of money was left him on condition that he change his job every two days. He merely disliked to cater to their curiosity, and would have left the Billings home the next morning had not Miss Billings offered him a new job which he decided to accept.

"We have six chimneys in this house, and goodness knows how long it is since any of them have been cleaned. I've been wanting to have them attended to before winter, and with you here, they might as well be done now."

"A chimney sweep. That's a new job for fair."

"But you know how?"

Jim caught a glimpse of Elsie behind the swinging door and he decided to "kid" her. "Oh, sure. The best job I ever did cleaning chimneys," he reminisced, "was down at Newburyport when Mrs. John Jacob Caster had me clean her chimneys."

"Oh!" Miss Billings leaned forward entranced, and the swinging door was pushed so that the eavesdropper would not lose a word.

"She loaned me her French poodle for the jub. I tied it to a long pole and climbed to the roof, where I jambed the pole, dog and all, down the flues. We did an exceptionally good job that day for the dog's feet kept up a rotary motion that scraped every particle of soot and ash off the inner walls."

"The poor dog. What did they do to it then?"

"Turned her over to the French maid who shampooed her and manicured her nails."

"Oh, what a fib," cried Elsie, shaking her fist at Jim, and then running abruptly away.

Jim laughed. "If you'll tell me where I can get a pole, a pail, a scraper and a lot of rags, I'll get busy."

"Do you have to go up on the roof?"

"I'll go up there later with a heavy rope to keep me from falling. The pits will probably keep me busy all the morning."

Which they did as he took out pail after pail of black soot. He was soon covered from head to foot with the dusky powder. The day was hot, and black treams ran down his forehead. The dust stuck in his throat and nearly strangled him. More than once he was tempted to throw up the job, but resisted.

"It has one advantage anyway," he admitted. "The women won't be near enough to quizz me when I'm in this condition. After this job, I'll beat it to another burg."

FEARS SUBSTITUTES MAY SUPPLANT MILK

Head of Borden Company Says Canners of Condensed Product Are Unable to Compete.

FIGHT IS ON IN CONGRESS

Eighty-seven Million Pounds of Imitations Sold Last Year, Oils Replacing Genuine Butter Fats.

Production of milk substitutes will be forced on companies which have refrained from the sale of anything but pure condensed milk unless Congress adopts one of four measures pending in committee to prohibit the manufacture and sale of these substitutes, according to Arthur W. Milburn, president of the Bordens Condensed Milk Company.

Placing these substitutes for condensed milk on the market has grown to such an extent, according to Mr. Milburn, that the situation amounts to a public health problem. Last year 87,000,000 pounds of condensed skimmed "milk," in which the butter fat had been replaced by cocoanut oil or other vegetable fats, was sold in the United States. As this sort of product has only been on the market for three years, its growth is considered alarming by manufacturers who believe in retaining butter fat in condensed milk for its nutritive qualities.

ARTHUR W. MILBURN,
President of the Borden Company.

The substitute milk lacks the vitamines considered necessary to human sustenance, and it is on this ground that prohibition by Congress has been sought. Feeding children on milk from which all the butter fat has been extracted may result in Pellagra and kindred diseases, Mr. Milburn said.

In a brief filed with the Agricultural Committee of the house, which is holding hearings on the Voigt bill to prohibit substitute milk, the Borden company, through its attorney, Walter Engels, referred to testimony by Dr. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University in which he condemned the substitution of vegetable oils and fats for butter fat on the ground that public health would not permit of the sale of this article.

Retail grocers sell the substitute milk on the same terms as condensed milk containing butter fat and often at the same price, according to Mr. Milburn, although the cost of manufacture is $1.70 a hundred pounds, compared with $4.41 for milk containing butter fat.

"The problem is no imaginary one," said Mr. Milburn. "With cocoanut, peanut and cottonseed oils competing with butter fat there is bound to be a decided slump in our dairy industry. The milk supply rises and falls with the price obtained for the article. The butter fat replaced by foreign oils and fats creates a surplus to be used in other products, such as full cream butter and cheese, oversupplying the market and reacting in decreased production. Last year 7,000,000 pounds of cocoanut oil replaced a like amount of butter fat in evaporated milk and put 3,000,000 extra pounds of butter on the market that competed with and lowered the price of creamery butter. The public may see in this a benefit, but it is of a very temporary character, since a lower price for milk products has always curtailed production and induced the sale of cows for meat."

EATING GREENS WILL KEEP YOU YOUNG, HE SAYS

Baltimore Professor Tells People to Take a Quart of Milk a Day Also.

Baltimore.—There are many persons who, through improper diet, are as old looking at forty years as they would be at sixty-five on a proper diet, asserts Dr. E. V. McCollum, professor of biochemistry, Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health.

Dr. McCollum says a satisfactory diet cannot be made out of cereals, peas and beans, potatoes, fleshy roots and muscle meats, of which Americans are so fond.

"We should take at least a quart of milk per day, and we should reduce our meat consumption to approximately 5 per cent of the energy value of the diet. Substitute milk for half the quantity of meat now used and eat green salads."

Cathedral of Mud and Wood.

Of the world's cathedrals, probably the most curious is that which crowns a hill in Canada. In appearance it resembles nothing so much as a mountain of grass, although on closer inspection one is able to see that mud and wood have been extensively employed. The structure can accommodate 4,000 persons.

ROSENDALE.

Rosendale, Aug. 26.—Since the Rev. A. H Price resigned the pastorate June 1, there has been service every Sunday. The Rev. D. W Guthrie preached three Sundays. Later the pulpit was filled once by the Christian Endeavor Union of Kingston, and two Sundays by Mr. Deyo and Mr. Brady. Mrs. Elsie Myers Pultz is now the regular supply. Those who hear Mrs Pultz not only enjoy her sermons but receive great help in spiritual life. She is a sister of the famous Baptist minister the Rev. Cortland Myers, D. D. All are most cordially welcome to come and hear the talented woman preach every Sunday morning.

The Rev. Justin P. Field, a state convention worker, will spend the last two weeks of September with the church, visiting the people and holding services. We are anticipating his arrival with great interest.

The Rev. D. W. Guthrie, who has been very ill, is now at his home here, slowly regaining his health. He spent four weeks in the Kemble sanitarium, where he passed through several operations.

The sale held August 18, afternoon and evening was a very enjoyable affair. A delightful program was given in the evening under the direction of Mrs. Luella Haust Hett. The net receipts were $62.00

The Baptist church property is now undergoing extensive repairs. The roofs of both church and parsonage are new, and steps have been built at the front and back doors of the parsonage and at the side door of the church. Also the inside of the parsonage is to be papered and painted throughout and other repairs made to make the house again a comfortable home.

The annual picnic of the Sunday School, Miss C. E. Anderson superintendent, was held at Kingston Point Thursday, August 25.

It is expected that at the Baptist Church next Sunday the choir will have the competent help of the Misses Lydia and Harriet Berg of Brooklyn.

Miss Myrtle Mellert of Passaic, N. J., and Miss Jennie LeFevre of Poughkeepsie are visiting at Mrs. Ralph LeFevre's.

The Ladies' Aid Society was nicely entertained by Mrs. A. Campfield and her daughters.

One of the largest fires in the history of the State of New Jersey broke out at Hoboken early in the evening of August 21 and destroyed most of the Army Piers. The S. S. Leviathan, largest liner afloat, formerly the Vaterland, caught fire and for a time was threatened with destruction. The fire also spread to the Lackawanna Railroad Station and for a long time was uncontrollable at that point. The bodies of hundreds of American soldiers were carried off Pier 4 by soldiers and longshoremen in the teeth of the flames. There was no loss of life, though many firemen were burned. The offices of the Hamburg-American line was badly burned. The strong wind blew the blaze, and it was feared that Hoboken's apartment house district would be caught in its path. The Hoboken Post Office caught fire, but it was extinguished. Quantities of mail were rushed from the building. The Army transports Wheaton and Western Queen were also ablaze. They were drawn into midstream, with their freights of soldier dead, and the flames extinguished by fireboats. The transports also carried ammunition.

Peculiar Maori Belief.

Present-day Maoris are nominally Christians, but there are many old chiefs who are still fond of their ancient totem poles. Their religion is that of nature worship combined with the veneration of ancestors. A peculiar and interesting detail of their religion is in the belief that the soul dwells in each human being's left eye. The Maoris were confirmed cannibals in by-gone days.

Ostrich's Feelings Hurt.

The finest ostrich feathers are the forty or more white ones which come off the wings. The birds seem to feel very keenly the disgrace of having their feathers plucked. They go about hanging their heads and showing chagrin very plainly. A more bedraggled forlorn looking creature than the freshly plucked ostrich does not exist.

Dam Not Built by Experts.

The failure of the dam which caused the famous Johnstown flood, May 31, 1889, was due to defects of construction explained by the fact that no engineer was employed in designing or building the dam.

Premiers Lloyd George & M. Briand

These two heads, Premier Lloyd George and Premier Briand, were examined by an expert phrenologist, who declared there to be a striking resemblance between the two heads. Their hair, head, eyes, mouth, chin and forehead are almost exactly similar. In fact, the expert said one might take them for twin brothers. Strangely enough, they are wearing the same style collars and ties.

The Young Men's Christian Assocition of Kingston is always willing to share its privileges with the young ladies inasfar as possible. On Tuesday evenings the gymnasium and swimming pool have been reserved for their use as well as Friday morning. A special request was made for Glenford camp this week-end. It so happened that arrangements could easily be made and a group of young ladies under the supervision of Miss Eva Schook are planning to spend tonight and Sunday at the camp. Others who desire to go will call the association by telephone and make their arrangements as the autos leave the association building at 5:45 p. m.

The service was well attended. This Sunday's is the last Gospel meeting for the open air during this summer. It is expected that the attendance will be the largest of any meeting yet.

The Rev. A. A. Zabriskie will address the audience. The Rev. Zabriskie is an old time preacher with a ringing message.

The song service will be conducted by Charles Knight, who is a well known man in Kingston. With the aid of the orchestra he is planning on rendering a number of selections with those who have volunteered to assist him. This will be a song service of great interest and the many of Mr. Knight's friends will be anxious to be present. Richard Dawe will be the soloist.

BRIDGE ENDS ARE CONNECTED

Terry & Tench Hook Up Both Ends Of The Steel Framework Of The Rondout Creek Bridge This Morning—Getting Ready To Lay Floor Of Bridge.

Just before noon today the two ends of the Rondout creek bridge met and when the bridge workers knocked off work for the week at 12 o'clock the steel framework from both sides of the creek had been connected, or hooked up as Superintendent Spooner of Terry & Tench, who has charge of the bridge construction, expressed it.

From now on the work of laying the bridge flooring will be taken up and already work on the concrete forms has been started by the bridge builders.

Although both ends of the bridge are now connected there is still considerable steel frame work to be installed in position, but rapid progress may now be looked for. Since Superintendent Spooner started work on building the bridge there has been hardly any delay except while waiting for the steel, and there was also a strike among the bridge workers who refused to accept a cut in wages, but that difficulty was smoothed over, and only a day or so was lost by reason of the strike.

LAY WATER MAIN IN TUBBY STREET

The pipe for the extension of the water main through Tubby street has just been received by the water department and on Monday, weather permitting, Superintendent Harrison will place a force of men at work excavating on that street. The residents of Tubby street petitioned the water board and the board of public works some time ago to extend the city water to their homes on that street. There has been some delay in receiving the pipe which was the reason why the main was not extended earlier in the summer.

Corncob Has Real Value.

The lowly corncob can be made into many useful articles, due to a set of discoveries made in the bureau of chemistry of the Department of Agriculture. After a high-grade adhesive is removed, pure cellulose, a very good quality of paper, and valuable lime products are recovered from the residue.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Heiselman-Parslow.

Conrad J. Heiselman, a member of the staff of the First National Bank, and Miss Ethel M. Parslow of No. 98 Tubby street, were united in marriage on Wednesday afternoon at the Reformed Church of the Comforter by the pastor, the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe, using the double ring ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Esther Wood of this city as bridesmaid while the best man was Carl J. Laux of Lockport, N. Y. After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Heiselman will reside at No. 67 Wurts street. Both bride and groom are popular young folks and have the well wishes of a host of friends. The bride is a daughter of Andrew Parslow, and has been teaching in the public schools in Columbia county for some time.

Barth Employes Make Merry.

The dance and reception held at the Barth plant Friday evening was attended by about 200 employes with their wives and friends. The evening's enjoyment was started with Balfe's orchestra playing for dancing. Later in the evening the assemblage was entertained by Cliff Moore, the well-known steeple jack singing "Read Them and Weep" and "Death Where is Thy Sting." Thomas McGurn sang "Mother Machree" and "There is a Vacant Chair at Home, Sweet Home." Both singers were given much applause. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served by Mr. Gruenderg, electrical engineer in charge of the development department. Many thanks were extended the officials of the Barth company for their hospitality. Mr. Reben, the general manager, responded.

Mrs. Mary White, of New York city, who was arrested recently on a charge of violation of the Volstead act, is called the "Queen of the Bootleggers." It is said that since she started operating she has cleaned up $5,000,000.

All Due to the Women.

In a lecture before the Royal Institute, Prof. Arthur Keith, an eminent biologist, gave the credit for American success to the women who came over with the Pilgrim fathers. The fact that these Englishmen brought their wives with them is responsible for the remarkably sturdy condition of the American people; whereas the Spaniards who went into Central and South America left their wives behind, and the result is a hybrid race which is not the equal of the original Iberian.

Mosquitoes Prevent Rice Production.

Although rice is the staple diet of the population of Ceylon, it is nearly all imported. Malarial mosquitoes breed so freely in the rice fields that laborers cannot work there.

Clarence E. Bloodgood, a well known lawyer of Catskill, who represented the Ulster-Greene county district in the state senate at Albany in 1892-93, died at his home in that village Wednesday evening in his seventy-second year. Mr. Bloodgood was born near Hensonville, Greene county, and was educated at Stamford Seminary and Yale University from which he was graduated in 1875. He served as school commissioner of Greene county nine years and in 1884 was admitted to practice at the bar. Until recently he engaged actively in the practice of his profession. His activities were many. He was instrumental in organizing the Co-operative and Commercial Fire Insurance Companies and for past four Companies and for the past four years had been their president. He also was active in organizing the Home for Aged Women in Greene county and had served as president of the Rip Van Winkle Club. In politics Mr. Bloodgood was a Democrat. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Josephine L. Case, two brothers, Levi W. Bloodgood and Isaac Bloodgood, both of Hensonville, and two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Barkner of Hensonville and Mrs. B. K. Van Valkenburgh of Catskill. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at three o'clock from his late residence.

Meanings of Oats in Dream.

To dream of this grain foretells a journey by land; if an engaged young girl dreams of oats it denotes that her wedding tour is not far off. To see the field of oats is a good sign, but to see it cut down is an evil omen. To see oats stored away denotes famine. To sow oats signifies much happiness and gain.

The First Keyboards.

The earliest keyboard of which there is record was that of the hydraulic or water organ, a Greek invention of the Second century. In this the keys, eighteen in number, were all level. The modern chromatic keyboard was in use as early as 1361. The keys were so large they had to be struck with the fist.

Land of Secret Societies.

China is the land of secret societies. They are numbered by the score, and their members by millions. Many of them have strange names, such as "The White Lilies," "The Red Door" and "The One-Piece Incense."

AIR LIFEBOAT BRITISH IDEA

Craft Designed for Sea Rescue Work Is Soon to Be Given a Definite "Tryout."

The first lifeboat of the air, which has been built with great secrecy, is to be launched soon in England.

After the official trials it will go through a series of tests with the British fleet. If it proves to be satisfactory, a large number of the craft on a much larger scale will be constructed.

The design is the outcome of three years of secret research and tests. The flying lifeboat will be able to reach a vessel in distress at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour, and it is claimed that it will be able to ride through the roughest storm with the confident safety of an Atlantic liner. The boats are able to taxi along the water.

Their seaworthiness is to be tested by sending the first experimental ship out with the navy, where it is to remain at sea for several days without any "mother ship."

The wing span of the one now nearing completion is 140 feet. Safety in the most violent sea will come from the resilience of the hull, which is in one piece from stem to stern. When this hull strikes a huge wave it gives way slightly in much the same way that a pneumatic tire does when it strikes an obstacle on the road.

The Unwelcome Stranger.

Scene: Lobby of theater. A little tailor, leading a boy about six years old by the hand, gives the doorman one ticket.

Doorman—Here! You've gotta have a ticket for that boy.

Tailor—For dis boy? Ah, don't be foolish, mister. He's only a small little feller. He won't do nothing.

Doorman—I don't care. You can't get in unless you have a ticket for the boy.

Tailor—It's all right, mister. I promise you I won't let him look.—Theater Magazine.

FORTUNE COMES AT LAST.

Away back in the sixteenth century the observant Cervantes remarked that fortune leaves always some door open to come at a remedy, but the people of Nassau must have doubted this as they waited through so many generations for the arrival of prosperity. The somnolent little capital of the Bahamas had practically nothing but its delightful climate to depend on and so there was little chance for anybody but hotel keepers to make money, these, like similar proprietors in Florida, long doing a pretty good business in "sick Yankees." The rest of the population managed to get an extremely modest living through the export of pimento and salt and a small as well as precarious trade in a few sea products such as sponges. But at last a door of prosperity, and a quite unexpected one has opened to Nassau and all is changed. The sleepy old town for the first time beholds modern rush with its own eyes, in consequence of a new, exacting and highly profitable export business.

The representative of a New York newspaper who went down there recently found "a scene of vehement activity," with money circulating among both white and black natives in quantities undreamed of in former times. "The change," we read, "is due wholly to prohibition in the United States, or rather to the prompt realization of the residents of Nassau that prohibition here, survived as it is by many thirsts, created for them an opportunity such as rarely has come to a sleepy British colony—such as never has come to one of them, perhaps, since piracy went out of style. This is the opportunity that Nassau eagerly has seized, and practically all other business has been abandoned for that of supplying American customers with barreled and bottled goods." The account of the happy new times in Nassau concludes with the statement that "trade is brisk and profits enormous."

Many people express solicitude for the railroad employees merely because they think there are many more employees than owners of the roads, and that the powerful few have been exploiting the more numerous, but less influential, workers for their own benefit. The Railway Age estimates that there are approximately twice as many owners of rail securities as there are employees. The Northern Pacific road is considered typical of all lines, and a recent count showed that there are 73,000 owners of its bonds and stocks. But the employees of the Northern Pacific number only about 30,000. The rights of those security holders are just as inviolate as the rights of labor. The railroad employees were able through threatened strikes and various other forms of intimidation, to raise their wages substantially as the cost of living rose during and after the war. But the security holders, depending for their incomes on their dividends and interest payments, had no redress.

A special committee of the American Bar Association has recommended that the date for presidential inaugurations be advanced from March 4th to the third Monday in January, and also that Members of Congress elected in November meet on the second Monday of the January following. It is argued that too much time elapses from the date of the election to the taking of office by the successful candidates and the putting into effect of the policies the people have endorsed. At present, unless a special session of Congress is called by the President, thirteen months elapse before members elected in November take their seats in December of the following year. In the meantime conditions under which they were elected may have entirely changed.

One of the great industries of the United States is the manufacture of film for kodaks, motion picture cameras, etc. One of the numerous firms manufacturing film in the United States pays taxes to the amount of $5,000,000 a year. European firms manufacturing a similar product are permitted to ship the film in free of duty, keeping the selling price just under the American price and putting in their own pockets the huge profits incident to their lower costs of production. That is the Democratic idea of a Federal system of taxation—taxing the American but not the foreigner who takes advantage of a good American market. Watch the Republicans change the plan.

Burroughs Nature Club Notes

By HOUGHTON MIFFLIN CO.

What do you know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper. Look for answers in this column.

Can You Answer These Questions.

1. What is the name of the little black-green bird, whose song is similar to the yellow warbler's, and which is slightly larger?

2. How many young are there in a skunk litter?

3. Why are two rainbows often seen at the same time?

Answer in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Are porcupines found all over America?

Pretty much so. Erethizon dorsatus, or Canada porcupine, inhabits coniferous woods about as far north as they extend, and in earlier days lived in wooded country as far south as Virginia and Kentucky. In the middle states it, and a yellow haired variety Erethizon epixanthus, are both found, the latter well known in the West. There are tree-inhabiting kinds in South America.

2. Can the "water witch" really find water with a divining rod, and what explains this?

We know no satisfactory explanation for the occasional success of certain persons using a hazel or willow forked stick. Scientists disbelieve in any inherent quality of the rod that makes it react when near water-sources, and say there are more failures than successes. One technical chemist reports sinking a splendid well against the advice of a man with a divining rod.

3. What is the largest bird in the world and where does it live?

The ostrich is the largest existing bird, and is native to the plains and deserts of Africa. It has been domesticated and is raised not only on ostrich farms in Africa, but in California and in America. There are two kinds of ostrich in Africa. In South America the bird is represented by the smaller rhea, which has three toes, as against the two toes of the African ostrich.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

The Shine.

Wearily I clamber
To the dizzy height
Of the leather settee;
Not a word
Is spoken
Lanquidly the Hellene
Applies the polish
To my shoes.
He makes a few
Feeble passes over them
With a cloth
Imparting a dull glow,
Wearily I clamber down
And hand him
15 cents,
Not a word
Is spoken

Hands that grasp too much hold but little.

Such Asininity.

At one of the special events, a lady had responded beautifully to several encores. Another woman sitting on the side turned to a friend sitting near her and remarked:

"She has quite a repertoire, hasn't she?"

"Yes," answered the friend, "but she dresses so she doesn't show it."

Another sad fact is that if a man happens to marry his first love she isn't always his last love.

Home Brew Foolishness.

I losh my li'l walrus
I'm afraid he got in jail,
He got too gay and sassy
And flipped his li'l tail.

He twirled his roguish whiskers,
And flapped his flipper fin
And yet so sweet and guileless,
How could they run him in?

Have you sheen my li'l walrus,
You'd know him by his gait,
A sinuous rollin motion,
A wriggling hezhitate.

I know some cop did spy him
And thought his dance too crude,
And took him to the hoshgow
Now wouldn't that be rude?

Sho if you shee my walrus,
I've losh my li'l pet,
Jus' one drink or maybe two,
'Twas that made me forget.

Sho if you see my walrus,
Jus' bring him back to me.
I'll be waiting for him, moistly,
With my arms around thish tree.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story
Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

It was not enough for Miss Billings to know that Jim would not work longer than two days on a job. She wanted to know why, and since her niece's insinuation that Jim had inherited $3,000,000, both she and her little maid, Elsie, made every effort to solve the mystery.

Jim himself had no special reason for keeping mum about his uncle's strange will, in which the large sum of money was left him on condition that he change his job every two days. He merely disliked to cater to their curiosity, and would have left the Billings home the next morning had not Miss Billings offered him a new job which he decided to accept.

"We have six chimneys in this house, and goodness knows how long it is since any of them have been cleaned. I've been wanting to have them attended to before winter, and with you here, they might as well be done now."

"A chimney sweep. That's a new job for fair."

"But you know how?"

Jim caught a glimpse of Elsie behind the swinging door and he decided to "kid" her. "Oh, sure. The best job I ever did cleaning chimneys," he reminisced, "was down at Newburyport when Mrs. John Jacob Caster had me clean her chimneys."

"Oh!" Miss Billings leaned forward entranced, and the swinging door was pushed so that the eavesdropper would not lose a word.

"She loaned me her French poodle for the job. I tied it to a long pole and climbed to the roof, where I jambed the pole, dog and all, down the flues. We did an exceptionally good job that day for the dog's feet kept up a rotary motion that scraped every particle of soot and ash off the inner walls."

"The poor dog. What did they do to it then?"

"Turned her over to the French maid who shampooed her and manicured her nails."

"Oh, what a fib," cried Elsie, shaking her fist at Jim, and then running abruptly away.

Jim laughed. "If you'll tell me where I can get a pole, a pail, a scraper and a lot of rags, I'll get busy."

"Do you have to go up on the roof?"

"I'll go up there later with a heavy rope to keep me from falling. The pits will probably keep me busy all the morning."

Which they did as he took out pail after pail of black soot. He was soon covered from head to foot with the dusky powder. The day was hot, and black treams ran down his forehead. The dust stuck in his throat and nearly strangled him. More than once he was tempted to throw up the job, but resisted.

"It has one advantage anyway," he admitted. "The women won't be near enough to quiz me when I'm in this condition. After this job, I'll beat it to another burg."

Mae Murray Still at Keeney's—"The Kid" at Opera House.

Lillian Drake, known as "The Lily," hostess of the Cafe Royal, a popular private club, is a tywical Broadway Salamander—one of those women who can take from men and give nothing in return. The rest is a story that grips and tugs. It will be shown at Keeney's for the last times tonight. The comedy attraction is Eddie Barry in "Mr. Fatima." Monday and Tuesday is Norma Talmadge in "The Branded Woman," also Buster Keaton in "The Scarecrow."

Charlie Chaplin and Jackie Coogan in "The Kid" are making another record at the Opera House where it is showing for the last times again tonight.

EXHIBITION AT KINGSTON POINT

The big day for the children of the city playgrounds will be Friday, September 2, when all will journey to Kingston Point, where they will take part in a program representing the regular work of the playgrounds.

This program will be of interest to both the children taking part and to the spectators. It will include aesthetic dancing by the girls, funny stunts by the boys, races by both boys and girls and a medley of singing games.

The music for the occasion will be furnished by the Citizens' Band, so the dances and singing games will be more attractive due to this fact.

The children of the different parks will be in charge of their different directors and the whole program under the direction of Miss Olive Hammond.

After the exhibition the children will be permitted to enjoy themselves on the apparatus at the Point before returning to their homes.

WIFE TAKES HOME MAN WHO FORGOT

Sunday Morning Mrs. James F. Bennett of Syracuse Returned Home With Her Husband—He Applied For Aid To Police Saying He Had Lost His Memory.

Mrs. James F. Bennett of Syracuse reached Kingston Saturday evening in search of her husband, the man with the lost memory, who had applied to Chief of Police J. Allan Wood for assistance in locating his wife and his home. Sunday morning they called at police headquarters to say goodbye and thank the police for their aid in locating the wife and informing her that her husband was in Kingston.

Last week while Officer Entrott was on lower Broadway he was accosted by a stranger who said he had forgotten both his name and where he lived, and that he would like to relieve his wife's anxiety as to his whereabouts. He informed Chief Wood that his father-in-law, Addison Kitchen, was a contractor in Newtown, Pa.

Chief Wood sent a telegram to Mr. Kitchen asking for his daughter's address which was furnished and the chief communicated with her receiving word Saturday noon that she would be in Kingston that day.

While trying to locate Mr. Bennett's wife Mr. Bennett was cared for at the Kingston City Hospital.

The investigation brought out the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Bennett had lately been residents of Newburgh, residing in furnished rooms there. When the wife did not find him at Newburgh she had gone to her former address at Syracuse where she was located by Chief Wood.

LAUCK PRAISES LABOR BOARD WORK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Despite the fact that a strike vote is now being taken by the railroad brotherhoods because of wage reductions ordered by the Railroad Labor Board, W. Lauck, who has been consulting economist of the railroad unions, today paid high tribute to the work of the board and gave it credit for stabilizing railroad labor conditions.

The recent decision of the board relative to punitive overtime, Lauck said, has been displeasing to both the railroad employes and the railroad managements. He expressed confidence, however, that the decisions of the board had forestalled labor troubles on the railroads despite the fact that the brotherhoods are now taking a strike ballot.

GREGORY COMES TO THE RESCUE

The problem of power for the cider mill at the Farm and Home Bureau picnic on Wednesday has been solved by Gregory & Co., the Broadway dealers in house furnishings, coming to the rescue of E. W. Hathaway, and loaning him the electric motor from their picking room. It was feared that a gasoline engine, the noise of which would drown the musical gurgle of the cider, would have to be used, but with the loan of an electric motor, even this slight drawback has been avoided. Gregory & Co. will exhibit an electric washer on the picnic grounds. This washer is a wonder.

HOSPITAL CROWDED

With Over 50 Patients—All Beds Are Filled.

The Kingston City Hospital has every bed occupied, and the corps of five nurses are kept on the jump day and night attending to the patients. There are a number of nurses on the sick list which accounts for the fact that but five are on active duty at the present time. The hospital has accommodations for between 40 to 45 patients, and it had been necessary to install extra beds. In some of the private rooms it had been necessary to place two patients at the same time. Today there were 51 patients in the hospital, and last week there were 55.

TAX COLLECTION COST INCREASES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Amusement-loving America spent nearly a billion dollars during the fiscal year 1921 for theatrical entertainment, according to statistics made public today by Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair. The ten percent tax collection on theatres and places of entertainment during the fiscal year just closed amounted to $89,725,905, Blair announced.

Total tax collections during the year were $4,595,000,765, as compared with $5,407,590,251 in the previous year. With the decrease in tax collections, the cost of collection advanced from 55 cents to 83 cents for each $100 collected, Commissioner Blair stated.

Income and profit taxes yielded $3,225,790,653, or seventy percent of the total tax revenue. The same taxes yielded $3,956,936,003 in 1920.

During the year collections under the Volstead and National prohibition act were $2,152,083 as compared with $641,029 in the previous year. It is also estimated by Commissioner Blair that close to $2,500,000 was collected by the department of justice in fines and penalties for violation of the prohibition act.

Tobacco netted $255,218,499 and headed the list of miscellaneous taxes. Freight transportation taxes yielded $140,019,077 and passenger transportation taxes netted $97,481,896. Milady's toilette netted Uncle Sam $5,800,768 in taxes on cosmetics, perfumes and proprietary articles, while the chewing public paid $1,332,177 in taxes on chewing gum.

New York was the greatest revenue producing state, paying taxes of approximately $1,000,000,000 while Pennsylvania was second with tax payments of $488,000,000.

Edith Roberts in "Luring Lips" at the Auditorium tonight is the story of a woman's sacrifice to prove that her husband is not a thief How she plays with fire to secure evidence which would release the only man she loved from prison; his doubt of her and the eventual realization of her goodness and love makes a strong and appealing photoplay. TEAM RUNS AWAY.

Chichester Boy Cut When Wagon Turns Over.

Chichester, Aug. 29.—On Saturday afternoon a team of horses owned by Emery Okos of this place ran away. No one was seriously hurt although a son of Mr. Okos, was cut and bruised around the mouth. The two-seated wagon turned completely over, smashing the top, wheels, and some of the frame. It is said that the top saved the occupants of the wagon from being bodly injured. A break in a part of the harness started one of the horses and caused the run away. One horse had its leg torn and cut.

Selected for Health Experiment.

Selection of the town of Mansfield and the county of Richmond, Ohio, as the location of its five year experiment in the development of children, is announced by the national child health council. The Ohio communities were picked from 80, including Kingston, which sought the distinction, as most nearly complying with the qualifications of a typical American community.

Grape Prices in Doubt.

Grapes are the most uncertain fruit on the market just now as regards price, says the Marlborough Record. Growers all know the crop is short and expect the demand to be strong with consequent high prices, but buyers, of course, are holding off and predict that prices will not be exceptionally high.

EVERYBODY COME TO THE BIG PICNIC

No Membership, Invitation, Ticket Or Fee Is Required To Attend The Farm Bureau Gathering In Forsyth Park.

A number of timid and pessimistic persons in this city are, it seems, in doubt whether they will be permitted to attend the Farm and Home Bureau and Chamber of Commerce picnic in Forsyth Park on Wednesday, as they are not members of either body. For their benefit, The Freeman this morning asked Chairman Hathaway whether any special qualification was required in order to be able to attend the picnic.

"Everybody welcome, the more the merrier, and everything free except the food and drink sold by the ladies of the Home Bureau, the hot dogs sold by Mr. Davis and the cider I am going to make with Mr. Bunn's cider mill," said Mr. Hathaway.

"They can see the baseball games and the other athletic events, listen to the band music and hear Col. Roosevelt's speech and do any darn thing they please, so long as they behave themselves, and it won't cost a cent. No tickets, no invitations, no red tape. The freedom not only of Forsyth Park is theirs but, when Forsyth Park overflows they can fill up the Kingston fair grounds with automobiles and people. The state troopers will be there to direct automobile traffic and aid the city police in keeping the parks clear of fakers.

"This picnic is going to be clean —no barkers (unless it be Davis's hot dogs), no fakers, no peddlers, no midway and no games. Just a get-together of country and city folks, with plenty to eat and drink for sale at moderate prices."

QUOTATIONS AT PUBLIC MARKET

There was another large attendance at the public market on Field Court this morning. It is expected that Tuesday's market will be even larger for there are a number of producers who do not come to the market on Mondays as they do not pick produce on Sundays.

The wholesale quotations today were:

Apples—50 to 60 cents per basket.

Tomatoes—50 to 60 cents per basket.

Peaches—75 cents to $1.75 per basket.

Green beans—$1.50 per bushel.

Wax beans—$1.50 per bushel.

GERMAN TURMOIL GROWS GREATER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Aug. 29—The flames of political strife unloosened by the murder of Dr. Mathias Erzberger, leaped high today when the full news of yesterday's demonstration here and in other towns was told and when Chancellor Wirth summoned his cabinet to extraordinary session to discuss the internal crisis.

Two working men were killed and a third mortally wounded in a clash between reds and monarchists yesterday afternoon at Potsdam.

That old Kaiser-town bristled with uniforms of men and officers of the old army, including some famous generals, who had defied the government's order forbidding a demonstration in celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of Tannenberg. At the same time, Potsdam swarmed with radicals who had heeded the summous of the Rote Fahne to make a counter demonstration.

Police fired into a throng of working men when the latter resisted an attempt to throw their red flags into the canal.

The inter-party strife and the bitterness continues to grow hourly in intensity and the menace of a cabinet crisis loomed still large today. Moderate elements of all parties were bending their energies to prevent it, realizing that nothing could be more disastrous to Germany at this moment, when the war-crippled industries are just beginning to regain their bearing and when the league of nations council is about to make a final decision of Upper Silesia.

Meanwhile the investigation into Erzberger's assassination continues. The town of Offenburg, Baden, where the Centrist leader and former Finance Minister was slain while walking on a high road in the Black Forest, was thick with police, with and without uniforms. The best brains of the German secret service police have been dispatched to the Baden city to track down the murderers. Thus far the elaborate inquiry has been fruitless. The two students who were arrested Saturday on suspicion, were released.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of "political murder."

It was found at the inquest that the shots that killed the Centrist leader were fired from two different revolvers.

The latest clue which the police were investigating today was that an unknown voice telephoned to the newspaper Adische Presse at noon of the day of the murder—last Friday—asking if there was any information about Erzberger, whose assassination had not yet been discovered at that time.

The newspaper war over the sensational political murder raged on with fury. Gloomy predictions were made on all sides. Vorwaerts, the government's own mouthpiece said:

"Only brutal ruthlessness can now save Germany from a bloody civil war."

The Catholic organ, Germania, again demanded the suppression of all nationalistic holidays, which the militarists are using for purposes of agitation the paper charges. The royalist, Kreuz-Zeitung, counters this with, "The nationalistic youths know how to protect their rights with a strong will."

Erzberger's "home town," Biberbach, having offered to erect a monument and donate a "grave of honor" to its most famous son, the funeral arrangement's were changed by the widow today. The murder victim will be buried in Biberbach on Wednesday, instead of Berlin.

A funeral ceremony for the dead politician yesterday as addressed by ex-Chancellor Fehrenbach and Minister of Posts Giesbert.

SAFETY DEPOSIT ROBBED.

Chicago Police Hold Five Men for $250,000 Robbery.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Five men—two watchmen and three others whose identity the police are concealing—are held today in connection with the robbery of the Security Safety Deposit vaults in the Masonic Temple. Loot obtained by four men who participated in the robbery is estimated at as high as $250,000.

Ernest Weber and Milton Jonas, guards, are held. Chief of Detectives Hughes declares they have told contradictory stories.

According to the police, the four men approached Weber, the outer guard at the vault, and one of them asked to rent a safe deposit vault. Weber accepted payment for the vault and gave the men a card admitting them. Inside, the men are said to have drawn guns, bound and gagged Jonas and proceeded to break open nineteen boxes with hammers and chisels.

CARS CRASH ON THE BOULEVARD

A Studebaker automobile owned by a man named Thomas from Stamford, Conn., and a Paige sedan owned by Joseph Blitzer of West Hoboken, N. J., figured in an accident on the Ashokan boulevard Sunday. Just how the accident happened is not known. In attempting to pass on the road the two cars came together and the Studebaker was wrecked and Mrs. Thomas was slightly injured. She was brought to Kingston and taken to Dr. Kemble's Sanitarium on Clinton avenue where today it was reported that her injuries were not serious.

There is a difference of opinion as to how it happened. Blitzer, who was driving the Paige, was coming down the boulevard with a party of friends when he says the Studebaker came up in the rear and attempted to pass his car but struck his right rear fender. The impact threw the Studebaker around in the road and out in the ditch and over the bank.

After the accident Blitzer waited around for an hour for an officer to appear and when informed that he would have to wait a long time before an officer appeared on the Ashokan boulevard he reported the accident to District Attorney Traver. According to the story told the district attorney Blitzer was driving along in the middle of the road when without warning he felt a jar when the other car struck him. He was of the opinion that the other car had attempted to pass him on the right.

Another version of the accident is that the Paige passed the Studebaker and cut in short after passing and was struck.

The Studebaker was hauled back on the road by the wrecking crew from the Stuyvesant Garage and brought to this city for repairs.

TO CONFER ON UNEMPLOYMENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 29—Steps by the administration to prevent a winter of suffering due to unemployment were going forward today.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover was completing plans for a national unemployment conference, which will be called by the president within the next few weeks. The president it is understood, has directed other cabinet members to consider the question of unemployment in order that the whole question and method of remedying it, may be worked out in the cabinet next week.

It is the plan of Secretary Hoover to have the unemployment conference in session during the early part of September in order that representatives of large industry, labor and the government may cooperate in an effort to produce the maximum efficiency. A survey of the unemployment situation will be made bby the conference and it is expected that some measures of redistribution of labor will be worked out.

The president's future course with regard to idleness will hinge largely on the outcome of the conference. The president has advised members of congress that he is concerned over the situation and that he might deem it wise to call upon congress for action. If the forthcoming conference makes recommendations for legislative action, it is expected that the president will go before congress during the latter part of September and ask relief.

GOT THE LODGES MIXED.

Kingston Lodge of Elks, Not Masons, is Assessed for $24,000.

In the list of properties in this city assessed at $10,000 or more which was published in The Freeman Saturday, an error was made in regard to:

"Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. and A. M., $24,000."

which should have read:

"Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. Elks, $24,000."

The error was discovered by The Freeman after the papers had been published and after it was too late to make a correction. The error also was brought to the attention of The Freeman by officers of both Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. and A. M., and by Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. Elks, both of whom asked that it be corrected.

GRIFFITH TO HEAD IRISH DELEGATES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 29.—An unconfirmed report was circulated here today that Arthur Griffith is to replace Eamonn de Valera as head of the Sinn Fein delegation when it goes to London again to confer with Premier Lloyd-George.

The above report is significant not only in that it appears to take for granted as a foregone conclusion that the Irish plenipotentiaries will go to London again, but because of the implied "shake-up" in the high councils of the Sinn Fein. Arthur Griffith has been for years contrasted with de Valera as the more aggressive and more radical. He is generally credited with being the real founder of the Sinn Fein. When de Valera was in America, he was "Acting President of the Irish Republic." Less scholarly than de Valera, he is more direct and his personality appeals more to the masses than does that of his reserved and austere chief.

Throughout the peace negotiations between Ireland and the British government the more radical elements of the Sinn Fein party have opposed de Valera's moderate diplomacy and have looked to Griffiths to make that opposition assert itself in the decisive councils. If the report is true that Griffiths is to replace de Valera, it will mean the first real reverse of the Sinn Fein chieftain at the hands of his party and will undoubtedly foreshadow a more aggressive policy in the conferences—provided they are resumed.

BIKE TOO SLOW FOR AUTOMOBILE

And Sergeant Phinney Overhauled Fleeing Woodstock Youth at Esopus This Morning—Accused of Escaping With Milk Collection Monday.

About 8 o'clock this morning Sergeant Hanley, who is acting chief of the police department while Chief Wood is away on his vacation, received a telephone call from Granville Yerry of Woodstock, who said that Thomas Donald, 16 years old, who was employed by him in making milk collections from the customers on his milk route in that place, had run away with both the money collected and the collection book. Mr Yerry said the amount of the money was between $30 and $40.

Sergeant Phinney was assigned to the job of apprehending young Donald who had come towards Kingston on his bicycle. The sergeant learned that a boy answering Donald's description had been seen crossing the Skillypot to Sleightsburgh. "Sime" Wood and the trusty Franklin of the police department were called into service and they set sail after the fleeing youth.

While Donald may be a speedy bike rider he could not hope to exceed the speed of the police car with "Sime" at the helm, and he was overhauled at Esopus, and Donald and wheel were brought back to police headquarters and Mr. Yerry notified. When searched by the police all Donald had with him was about $4.

MRS. ROSENBAUM NOT A SUICIDE

Death Of Former Rosendale Woman In New York Was Due To Natural Causes—Funeral On Tuesday At Rosendale.

Mrs. Mae Jordan Rosenbaum, whose family resides near Rosendale, was found dead in her apartment on the Seventh floor of No. 340 West Eighty-Sixth street, New York city, at noon Saturday and in the opinion of the authorities she had been dead six days.

The discovery of her body was brought about through Miss Rae B. Edmondson of No. 214 Riverside Drive, a friend, who last saw her alive the previous Monday evening. Miss Edmondson tried repeatedly to reach Mrs. Rosenbaum on the telephone but her calls were not answered. On Saturday she visited Oscar Christopherson, superintendent of the apartment building, and told him she was afraid something had happened to her friend. He entered the apartment with the aid of a duplicate key and found Mrs. Rosenbaum dead in the bathroom.

On a table in the reception room the policeman who was summoned found two letters, one of which was signed. The other letter was addressed to "Dear Will," and requested that he return $3,000 to her. The letter stated that the writer was behind in her rent and that if she did not receive the money in a short time she would have to give up her apartment. The policeman quoted the letter as saying in part: "Your neglect and the wrongs you have done me were the reasons I divorced you."

The other letter, signed with the initials of the dead woman, was addressed to "My good friend," and spoke of having received a letter from the addresses at The Commodore Hotel several days before, and stated: "I have experienced an unexpected and heavy financial drawback since I saw you."

Dr. Benjamin Schwartz, acting chief medical examiner, and the police were of the opinion that death was caused by poison. The policeman was unable to find a vial or other container, but Dr. Schwartz ordered the body sent to the morgue for autopsy. Dr. Schwartz, who performed the autopsy, said he could not determine the cause of death until analysis of the vital organs had been made. He expressed the opinion that a quick-acting poison had been taken by Mrs. Rosenbaum. Later it was found that death was due to natural causes.

Mrs. Rosenbaum divorced her husband, Dr. William Rosenbaum, about a year ago. He called at the apartment at the request of friends of the dead woman after the discovery of the body and assumed responsibility for the funeral.

Search of Mrs. Rosenbaum's effects revealed that she had a little more than five dollars in money and jewelry valued at about $1,500.

On Sunday it was learned that Mrs. Rosenbaum was formerly a model for Charles Dana Gibson, the famous artist. Dr. Rosenbaum, whom she divorced, is one of the most expert tennis players in the United States.

The body of Mrs. Rosenbaum arrived in Kingston this afternoon and was taken by Undertaker Leo V. Grogan to the home of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Jordan, at Maple Hill, near Rosendale. The funeral will take place from the home of her mother on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock and from St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, at ten o'clock, where a solemn high Mass of requiem will be celebrated. Interment will be at Rosendale.

Young Mr. Abramovitz was quite badly burned about the eyes and was given attention quickly by Dr. Gillett and later by Dr. A. C. Gates. It is expected that the eyesight will not be impaired.

FEARS SUBSTITUTES MAY SUPPLANT MILK

Head of Borden Company Says Canners of Condensed Product Are Unable to Compete.

FIGHT IS ON IN CONGRESS

Eighty-seven Million Pounds of Imitations Sold Last Year, Oils Replacing Genuine Butter Fats.

Production of milk substitutes will be forced on companies which have refrained from the sale of anything but pure condensed milk unless Congress adopts one of four measures pending in committee to prohibit the manufacture and sale of these substitutes, according to Arthur W. Milburn, president of the Bordens Condensed Milk Company.

Placing these substitutes for condensed milk on the market has grown to such an extent, according to Mr. Milburn, that the situation amounts to a public health problem. Last year 87,000,000 pounds of condensed skimmed "milk," in which the butter fat had been replaced by coconaut oil or other vegetable fats, was sold in the United States. As this sort of product has only been on the market for three years, its growth is considered alarming by manufacturers who believe in retaining butter fat in condensed milk for its nutritive qualities.

ARTHUR W. MILBURN,
President of the Borden Company.

The substitute milk lacks the vitamines considered necessary to human sustenance, and it is on this ground that prohibition by Congress has been sought. Feeding children on milk from which all the butter fat has been extracted may result in Pellagra and kindred diseases, Mr. Milburn said.

In a brief filed with the Agricultural Committee of the house, which is holding hearings on the Voigt bill to prohibit substitute milk, the Borden company, through its attorney, Walter Engels, referred to testimony by Dr. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University in which he condemned the substitution of vegetable oils and fats for butter fat on the ground that public health would not permit of the sale of this article.

Retail grocers sell the substitute milk on the same terms as condensed milk containing butter fat and often at the same price, according to Mr. Milburn, although the cost of manufacture is $1.70 a hundred pounds, compared with $4.41 for milk containing butter fat.

"The problem is no imaginary one," said Mr. Milburn. "With coconaut, peanut and cottonseed oils competing with butter fat there is bound to be a decided slump in our dairy industry. The milk supply rises and falls with the price obtained for the article. The butter fat replaced by foreign oils and fats creates a surplus to be used in other products, such as full cream butter and cheese, oversupplying the market and reacting in decreased production. Last year 7,000,000 pounds of coconaut oil replaced a like amount of butter fat in evaporated milk and put 7,000,000 extra pounds of butter on the market that competed with and lowered the price of creamery butter. The public may see in this a benefit, but it is of a very temporary character, since a lower price for milk products has always curtailed production and induced the sale of cows for meat."

EATING GREENS WILL KEEP YOU YOUNG, HE SAYS

Baltimore Professor Tells People to Take a Quart of Milk a Day Also.

Baltimore. There are many persons who, through improper diet, are as old looking at forty years as they would be at sixty-five on a proper diet, asserts Dr. E. V. McCollum, professor of biochemistry, Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health.

Dr. McCollum says a satisfactory diet cannot be made out of cereals, peas and beans, potatoes, fleshy roots and muscle meats, of which Americans are so fond.

"We should take at least a quart of milk per day, and we should reduce our meat consumption to approximately 3 per cent of the energy value of the diet. Substitute milk for half the quantity of meat now used and eat green salads."

GIRLS TO VISIT GLENFORD CAMP

The Young Men's Christian Associaton of Kingston is always willing to share its privileges with the young ladies insafar as possible. On Tuesday evenings the gymnasium and swimming pool have been reserved for their use as well as Friday morning. A special request was made for Glenford camp this week-end. It so happened that arrangements could easily be made and a group of young ladies under the supervision of Miss Eva Schook are planning to spend tonight and Sunday at the camp. Others who desire to go will call the association by telephone and make their arrangements as the autos leave the association building at 5 45 p. m.

The camp is being put in readiness and the grounds repaired for the big time on Labor Day. Roy Begg, the physical director of the Kingston association, has interesting games scheduled and with E. O. Allen in charge of parking automobiles it is anticipated that at least 50 cars will be parked during the day. As this is one of the last days of the camping season it is hoped that the public will avail themselves of this opportunity of seeing and enjoying the things the camp affords.

BRIDGE ENDS ARE CONNECTED

Terry & Tench Hook Up Both Ends Of The Steel Framework Of The Rondout Creek Bridge This Morning—Getting Ready To Lay Floor Of Bridge.

Just before noon today the two ends of the Rondout creek bridge met and when the bridge workers knocked off work for the week at 12 o'clock the steel framework from both sides of the creek had been connected, or hooked up as Superintendent Spooner of Terry & Tench, who has charge of the bridge construction, expressed it.

From now on the work of laying the bridge flooring will be taken up and already work on the concrete forms has been started by the bridge builders.

Although both ends of the bridge are now connected there is still considerable steel frame work to be installed in position, but rapid progress may now be looked for. Since Superintendent Spooner started work on building the bridge there has been hardly any delay except while waiting for the steel, and there was also a strike among the bridge workers who refused to accept a cut in wages, but that difficulty was smoothed over, and only a day or so was lost by reason of the strike.

LAY WATER MAIN IN TUBBY STREET

The pipe for the extension of the water main through Tubby street has just been received by the water department and on Monday, weather permitting, Superintendent Harrison will place a force of men at work excavating on that street. A six inch water main will be extended through Tubby street from East Chester street, and will connect with the water main on Hemlock avenue. The residents of Tubby street petitioned the water board and the board of public works some time ago to extend the city water to their homes on that street. There has been some delay in receiving the pipe which was the reason why the main was not extended earlier in the summer.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Heiselman-Parslow.

Conrad J. Heiselman, a member of the staff of the First National Bank, and Miss Ethel M. Parslow of No. 98 Tubby street, were united in marriage on Wednesday afternoon at the Reformed Church of the Comforter by the pastor, the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe, using the double ring ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Esther Wood of this city as bridesmaid while the best man was Carl J. Laux of Lockport, N. Y. After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Heiselman will reside at No. 67 Wurts street. Both bride and groom are popular young folks and have the well wishes of a host of friends. The bride is a daughter of Andrew Parslow, and has been teaching in the public schools in Columbia county for some time.

Barth Employes Make Merry.

The dance and reception held at the Barth plant Friday evening was attended by about 200 employes with their wives and friends. The evening's enjoyment was started with Balfe's orchestra playing for dancing. Later in the evening the assemblage was entertained by Cliff Moore, the well-known steeple jack singing "Read Them and Weep" and "Death Where is Thy Sting." Thomas McGurn sang "Mother Machree" and "There is a Vacant Chair at Home, Sweet Home." Both singers were given much applause. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served by Mr. Gruenderg, electrical engineer in charge of the development department. Many thanks were extended the officials of the Barth company for their hospitality. Mr. Reben, the general manager, responded.

Mrs. Mary White, of New York city, who was arrested recently on a charge of violation of the Volstead act, is called the "Queen of the Bootleggers." It is said that since she started operating she has cleaned up $5,000,000.

All Due to the Women.

In a lecture before the Royal Institute, Prof. Arthur Keith, an eminent biologist, gave the credit for American success to the women who came over with the Pilgrim fathers. The fact that these Englishmen brought their wives with them is responsible for the remarkably sturdy condition of the American people; whereas the Spaniards who went into Central and South America left their wives behind, and the result is a hybrid race which is not the equal of the original Iberian.

Mosquitoes Prevent Rice Production.

Although rice is the staple diet of the population of Ceylon, it is nearly all imported. Malarial mosquitoes breed so freely in the rice fields that laborers cannot work there.

Meanings of Oats in Dream.

To dream of this grain foretells a journey by land; if an engaged young girl dreams of oats it denotes that her wedding tour is not far off. To see the field of oats is a good sign, but to see it cut down is an evil omen. To see oats stored away denotes famine. To sow oats signifies much happiness and gain.

The First Keyboards.

The earliest keyboard of which there is record was that of the hydraulic or water organ, a Greek invention of the Second century. In this the keys, eighteen in number, were all level. The modern chromatic keyboard was in use as early as 1361. The keys were so large they had to be struck with the fist.

Land of Secret Societies.

AIR LIFEBOAT BRITISH IDEA

Craft Designed for Sea Rescue Work Is Soon to Be Given a Definite "Tryout."

The first lifeboat of the air, which has been built with great secrecy, is to be launched soon in England.

After the official trials it will go through a series of tests with the British fleet. If it proves to be satisfactory, a large number of the craft on a much larger scale will be constructed.

The design is the outcome of three years of secret research and tests. The flying lifeboat will be able to reach a vessel in distress at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour, and it is claimed that it will be able to ride through the roughest storm with the confident safety of an Atlantic liner. The boats are able to taxi along the water.

Their seaworthiness is to be tested by sending the first experimental ship out with the navy, where it is to remain at sea for several days without any "mother ship."

The wing span of the one now nearing completion is 140 feet. Safety in the most violent sea will come from the resilience of the hull, which is in one piece from stem to stern. When this hull strikes a huge wave it gives way slightly in much the same way that a pneumatic tire does when it strikes an obstacle on the road.

The Unwelcome Stranger.

Scene: Lobby of theater. A little tailor, leading a boy about six years old by the hand, gives the doorman one ticket.

Doorman—Here! You've gotta have a ticket for that boy.

Tailor—For dis boy? Ah, don't be foolish, mister. He's only a small little feller. He won't do nothing.

Doorman—I don't care. You can't get in unless you have a ticket for the boy.

Tailor—It's all right, mister. I promise you I won't let him look.—Theater Magazine.

AT THE THEATRES.

Mae Murray Still at Keeney's—"The Kid" at Opera House.

Lillian Drake, known as "The Lily," hostess of the Cafe Royal, a popular private club, is a tywical Broadway Salamander—one of those women who can take from men and give nothing in return. Though she is all rouge and silks on the surface, she is in reality a pure white lily beneath and her one hope is that some day she will be able to break away from it all. The rest is a story that grips and tugs. It will be shown at Keeney's for the last times tonight. The comedy attraction is Eddie Barry in, "Mr. Fatima." Monday and Tuesday is Norma Talmadge in "The Branded Woman." also Buster Keaton in "The Scarecrow."

Charlie Chaplin and Jackie Coogan in "The Kid" are making another record at the Opera House where it is showing for the last times again tonight.

"Who Am I?" a picturesque drama starring Claire Anderson is the attraction at the Auditorium tonight, also the last chapter of the man of mystery "Fantomas." Monday Edith Roberts in "Luring Lips."

NEW REALTY FIRM.

Fredenburgh, in Old Offices, To Have Metzger as Partner.

Fredenburgh-Metzger, Inc., the new realty company of which Walter S. Fredenburgh and Emanuel Metzger are the active members, have secured the well-lighted and easy-of-access offices upstairs in the State of New York National Bank building, Wall and John streets. Mr. Fredenburgh occupied these same offices as a real estate dealer from 1886 to 1894, the former well-known law firm of F. L. and T. R. Westbrook also having offices there, and after an absence of 27 years Mr. Fredenburgh is now back "on the old plantation." The corporation will not deal in insurance but only in real estate in which Messrs. Fredenburgh and Metzger have had long practical experience. Mr. Metzger is well-known in the county and city, having been a former corporation counsel of Kingston, for a number of years president and head of the Nitro Powder Company, and is a member of the Ulster county bar.

EXHIBITION AT KINGSTON POINT

The big day for the children of the city playgrounds will be Friday, September 2, when all will journey to Kingston Point, where they will take part in a program representing the regular work of the playgrounds.

This program will be of interest to both the children taking part and to the spectators. It will include aesthetic dancing by the girls, funny stunts by the boys, races by both boys and girls and a medley of singing games.

The music for the occasion will be furnished by the Citizens' Band, so the dances and singing games will be more attractive due to this fact.

The children of the different parks will be in charge of their different directors and the whole program under the direction of Miss Olive Hammond.

After the exhibition the children will be permitted to enjoy themselves on the apparatus at the Point before returning to their homes.

Seek Employment Worth While.

Let your employment be such as may become a reasonable person; and not be a business fit for children or distracted people, but fit for your age and understanding. For a man may be very idly busy, and take great pains to so little purpose, that, in his labors and expense of time, he shall serve no end but of folly and vanity. There are some people who are busy, but it is, as Domitian was, in catching flies.—Jeremy Taylor.

The winners in the [illegible] Contest, conducted by the New York American, will be announced Sunday, August 28, 1921, in The New York American. On sale at all news dealers.—Advertisement.
